ESTABLISHED FEBRUARY 7, 1884. McKINNEY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, OCT. 18, 1928.— TWELVE PAGES IN TWO SECTIONS—SECTION ONE FORTY-FIFTH YEAR

TEXAS IN BRIEF NEWS

TWO BOYS FOUND WITH BODIES CRUSHED.

Waco, Texas, Oct. 16.—Identification was established late Monday, of two young men, whose dead bodies were found in a gondola loaded with large cast iron pipe, discovered when a Cotton Belt freight train reached McGregor, twenty miles west of Waco.

In the clothing of one was found a bill-fold with an identification card bearing the name of Louis Hudson, giving his address as 904 Houston street, La Grange, Ga. The other was Joe Bowen, also of La Grange. Hudson's father has been communicated with and the bodies were brought to Waco early Monday night.

DEATH PENALTY FOR THOMPSON IN SHOOK CASE.

Eastland, Texas, Oct. 17.—Clyde Thompson, 18, was found guilty of murder in connection with the killing of Lucian Shook at Leeray, Sept. 7 last, and was given the death penalty by an Eastland county jury late Tuesday night. The case was given to the jury about 10 o'clock, and it deliberated less than half an hour. Charges of murder against Woodrow Wilson Davis, 12, were dismissed Tuesday when the boy took the stand as a state witness.

INDICT NEGRO IN GAINESVILLE.

Gainesville, Texas, Oct. 17.—Two indictments, one charging criminal assault and the other charging robbery with a deadly weapon, were returned against Silas Jorman, alias Eugene Hines, 19, negro, by the Cooke County grand jury at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The indictments grew out of attacks alleged to have been made by the negro on Mrs. A. R. Massenpflug, and the theft of the Hassenpflug automobile Oct. 8.

TAKES PISTOL OFF BOY HIJACKER.

Marshall, Texas, Oct. 17.—"I just picked out the wrong man, that's all," said a youth, 18, when he was placed in jail here Monday night charged with an attempt at hijacking. J. R. Barbourn, who turned the youth over to officers, said that he was stopped by the boy, who pointed a gun and told him to "stick 'em up." Instead of complying with the request, Barbourn said he grabbed the pistol, and then took charge of the would-be robber.

SUSPECT NEGRO IN ATTACK CASE

Temple, Texas, Oct. 15.—Successful after nearly a week's trailing of his quarry, Sheriff Jake Wright accompanied by Cook County deputies, left here Sunday with a young negro believed to have attacked and bruttoly beaten Mrs. A. R. Hassenpflug near Gainsville last Monday. Sheriff Wright, after trailing the suspect through Ft. Worth and other places located the negro in Houston Saturday. He was brought here by train.

LOST TAXICAB DRIVER ALIVE

Amarillo, Texas, Oct. 11.—A harrowing story of a two month's motor trip through the Southwest and part of Melico, during which he was constantly covered with a pistol so he could not communicate with friends or authorities, was related here Wednesday by Lewis (Shorty) Avritt, taxicab driver, who disappeared Aug. 8 after he had accepted a fare for a trip to West Texas oil fields.

L. H. SCHWEER TO BE TRIED IN PARIS

Sherman, Texas, Oct. 11.—L. H. Schweer, former cashier of the First National Bank of Denton, which suspended operation in August and who has been here in custody of the Federal Government, will be taken to Paris Oct. 22 to be tried before Judge W. L. Estes of the United States District Court on a charge of embezzlement. The order was issued at the request of Schweer.

AUTO VICTIM NEAR DEATH

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 15.—Eligc Gable of Kleburg, Dallas County, was injured critically Sunday night when his automobile turned over after it and another car had collided at Second avenue and Dixon street. Gable was taken in an unconscious condition to Parkland Hospital, where an examination revealed back injuries, a fracture of the skull, a broken left arm and internal injuries.

$250 IN MERCHANDISE STOLEN AT FORT WORTH

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 13.—Jewelry and other merchandise valued at $250 was stolen from the A. Baum Jewlery Company, 1513 Main street, early Friday morning. The burglars were seen by passers-by and fled when the police were called.

TWO KILLED AT RAIL CROSSING

Jolly, Texas, Oct. 15.—Two persons were instantly killed at a grade crossing here Sunday afternoon when a fast Fort Worth & Denver passenger train crashed into an automobile and hurled it 150 feet.

HOOVER MAKES PLANS FOR HIS TRIP TO WEST

Washington, Oct. 17.—Herbert Hoover, in spite of the fatigue of his New England campaigning, turned anew Tuesday to the consideration of plans for his return trip across the contingent during the closing days of his drive for the presidency.

With three of the four speeches he is to make in the East out of the way and arrangements virtually completed for his journey to New York next Monday to deliver the final one, the Republican candidate now is close enough to the time of his departure to begin mapping out the itinerary for the trip.

The transcontinental journey will see the delivery of his last speech but one of the campaign. Just where this will be made yet has to be decided, but it was indicated at his personal headquarters Tuesday that serious consideration was being given to proposals for it delivery at St. Louis. Chicago, Milwaukee and Minneapolis also have been suggested.

Selection of St. Louis would carry the Republican nominee across a trail blazed by his Democratic opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, on his second Western trip. That city not only is on the edge of the farm belt, but it is in debatable territory, which already has felt the campaign blasts of big oratorical guns of both parties.

Charley Evans Hughes, a former secretary of state and himself once a Republican presidential candidate, will make his first speech in behalf of Hoover's campaign in that state Oct. 23, when he goes into action at St. Joseph. On the following day he will speak at Chicago.

GREATER BAYLOR UNIVERSITY IS NOW LOOMING

Waco, Texas, Oct. 17.—That a Greater Baylor university looms before Texas Baptists is indicated in progress of the Greater Baylor campaign for $2,000,000 in district No. 7, with McKinney and Sherman as key cities and Rev. W. C. McClung of Denton, district chairman.

Hundreds of workers in this section have been enlisted to put over the $2,00,000 Baptist enterprise, and will be engaged in its promotion through Nov. 23 to Dec. 4, when the popular campaign is scheduled. Every Baptist and Baylor alumni in the state will be visited personally for a campaign contribution.

The campaign is identified with Baptist leaders throughout the state. In district No. 7 Dr. M. E. Hudson of McKinney is chairman of Collin county's association; Rev. W. E. Hand of Gainesville is chairman of Cooke County association; Mrs. Theron Fouts, Denton, Denton association; Dr. J. H. Hankins, Whitewright, Grayson County association.

"The most significant, enterprise in the history of Texas Baptists" has been the characterization given by State Chairman D. K. Martin of San Antonio. Success of the campaign will retire Baylor's indebtedness and create additional endowment to qualify Baylor for $300,000 promised by the General Education board.

DR. J. W. HUNT TO SPEAK HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

There will be held and anti-Al Smith Democrat rally at the coliseum in McKinney the coming Saturday night, Oct. 20, at 7:30 o'clock.

The leading address will be delivered by Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurray college, Abilene. Dr. M. E. Hudson will deliver a brief address and introduce the speaker.

The citizens of Collin county will have a rare privilege in hearing the address of Dr. Hunt. He is one of the most outstanding speakers in the entire Southwest. He ranks with such noted speakers as Norris, Shuler, Knickerbocker and others as an entertaining and forceful speaker. He is especially noted for his fine humor and crushing wit in dealing his blows at what he opposes as wrong. Dr. Hunt is a man of culture as well as power and knows how to appeal to the best that is in men.

The friends of Al Smith are invited to this meeting to hear the other side of the question discussed by Dr. Hunt.

The Hoover Democrats are encouraged over the prospects and they plan the Saturday night meeting as an important occasion.

Ample preparations are being made for the meeting at the collseum so that the audience will be comfortably situated. Dr. Hunt's voice will carry well beyond the building so that no one need fear being unable to hear the speaker.

Simon Taylor, well known Melissa citizen, attended the State fair in Dallas Tuesday.

CHANDLER SAYS TEXAN CAN RUN FOR TWO OFFICES

Austin, Oct. 17.—A. E. Harding of Fort Worth, nominee for the legislature from Tarrant county, apparently intends to run for two offices at the same time, and, according to H. Grady Chandler, assistant attorney general, Harding has a right to do so. Harding has announced for the state senate to fill the vacancy caused by the nomination of State Senator R. A. Stuart of Fort Worth for district attorney of Tarrant county.

Chandler held that regardless of whether the special election to fill Stuart's place and the November general election occur on the same day, Harding can secure a place on the ballot as a candidate in the special election.

SMITH CHARGES WASTE DURING G. O. P. REGIME

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 17.—A challenge to Republican claims of economy in administration of the Federal government was issued Tuesday night by Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who declared in his only formal speech before a Missouri audience that according to his idea the Harding and Coolidge regimes had been as "wasteful as any the country had ever seen."

"They attempted to give away our natural resources," he said, "and they have postponed and neglected the most pressing needs."

The Democratic nominee explained there were three pictures he desired to place before the country. One, he said, was that which the Republican party would like to have the American people view "as showing great efficiency and great economy."

The second, he added, was a picture "setting up real facts which show the government is costing more this year than when President Coolidge took office," while the third, he said, disclosed the "Republican lack of ability, lact of efficiency and lack of business methods."

The governor contended the Republicans were "lacking an issue" and for that reason had attempted to put into the minds of the people what "they are pleased to term Coolidge economy," and he declared he regarded this as the "grossest misrepresentation" so far made. Further, he said that Herbert Hoover, the Republican standard bearer, had a "large share in the painting of this false picture when," in his speech of acceptance, he said:

"By rigorous economy Federal expenses have been reduced by $2,000,000,000 per annum."

HON. L. J. TRUETT DEM CHAIRMAN TO SPEAK AT MELISSA

Hon. L. T. Truett, Democratic chairman of the Tenth district, will speak in Melissa at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, Oct. 19, in the interest of the National Democratic ticket.

Mr. Truett will also make an address in Blue Ridge Saturday night, Oct. 20, at 7:30 o'clock along the same lines.

County Judge A. M. Wolford will go to Altoga Friday night, Oct. 19, where at 7:30 o'clock he will address the voters of that section of the county for the National Democratic ticket.

County Attorney J. E. Abernathy spoke Tuesday night, Oct. 16, at 7:30 at Valdasta, for the National Democratic nominees. He was given a good hearing.

Dunn Memorial Baptist Church Being Repainted

The Dunn Memorial Baptist church, Viney Grove, 7 miles northeast of McKinney, is being freshly repainted. George F. Bomar, a well-known farmer of that community, and son, Lawrence, Bomar, are doing the painting. They are using the DuPont brand of paint, sold by the Wilcox Lumber company of McKinney, and which is being extensively advertised in this paper this fall. Mr. Bomar and son are experienced painters, who follow the trade to some extent as they find the time to do so from the cultivation of their crops every year. Wallace Bomar, another son of G. F. Bomar, lives in McKinney, and is also a painter by trade.

Gene Baldwin, federal highway inspector of this county, was in the city today and informed us that James H. Salmons, a highly esteemed farmer of near Plano, died last night.

Mrs. Alice Taylor was a visitor in Dallas Tuesday, attending the State fair.

DEMOCRATS IN HIGH GLEE AS SPEAKERS LASH G. O. P. MISRULE

By CARL GALLAGHER.

The district court room of the court house resounded with rebel yells and cheers for the democratic nominees as two speakers poured volley after volley into the republican candidates at a rally for the ticket held here Monday night.

Collin county Democrats played two aces at this, their first local rally, when they presented Mrs. Sarah T. Hughes, woman attorney of Dallas, and Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham, both these speakers made the welkin ring with vigorous addresses in behalf of Jeffersonian principles.

Mrs. Hughes, the first speaker, arrived a few minutes late, and was presented to the audience in a brief introduction by Judge H. L. Davis, county Democratic chairman. She wasted no time in getting into her subject. As she started, she removed her hat and laying it on the table in front of her, proceeded to discuss the party platform, and the issues in the presidential race, as if a veteran campaigner.

◆ ◆ ◆

Opposition Good for Democrats.

The present campaign is a good thing for Democracy, she argued, because it will end in success, and the people will come out of it better Democrats and stronger for the party than ever, she said.

She pointed out fundamental differences between the Democratic and Republican parties, and argued that the same issues exist now as always. Alexander Hamilton, founder of the Republican party, believed in aristocracy of wealth for the benefit oh the few, while Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic party, believed in the democracy of men.

A vote for Hoover is not just a vote for the man, it is an indorsement of the principles of the Republican party, she said.

She discussed the problem confronting the agricultural interests and declared that while the Republican party had enacted legislation to add wealth to the steel trust and also to the shipbuilders, President Coolidge had "extended sympathy to the farming class, the basis of all wealth and prosperity." She pointed out that appropriations had been given to the shipbuilders and that President Coolidge had vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill for the relief of the farmers, arguing that this bill was identical in purpose, as far as relief was concerned, to the legislation proposed and enacted for other classes.

◆ ◆ ◆

As to Prohibition.

Turning to prohibition the speaker asserted that Mr. Hoover's stand on that question is unknown. "He merely says he believes "prohibition is a noble experiment,'" a statement that any person could make, but which means nothing. She declared that Governor Smith is opposed to the open saloon, has always been, and argued that as president, Smith could do nothing except recommend. "It requires a two-thirds vote of congress to change the organic law of the land, and the people elect their members of congress, and you may be sure they will see to it that none but dry members are sent to Washington. It also requires a three-fourths vote of the state legislatures to ratify a change in the constitution before prohibition could be done away with." There are more than enough Southern states to prevent that, she said.

Enforcement of the Volstead law is the only issue. "Mr. Hoover says he will carry out the policies of the Coolidge administration. Well, you may expect the same kind of enforcement which prevails now. And you know what that means. It means that intoxicants may be procured with little difficulty most anywhere in the land."

She quoted from the statement of Gov. Smith, who repeated the oath of office and declared that, if elected, he would enforce the prohibition law so long as it remained on the statute books.

◆ ◆ ◆

Graft and Corruption.

She took up the graft and corruption of the Republican party during the last years, and named a list of leading government officials convicted and sent to the Federal penitentiary for various crimes.

She declared that the women of America are supporting Gov. Smith because he is honest, straight-forward and fearless. In closing she told of the aid Gov. Smith had rendered to the women of the country. When the woman suffrage amendment was passed by the national congress Gov. Smith was one of the first governors to call the legislature of his state in special session to ratify the law.

The speaker was frequently cheered as she delivered telling blows against the Republican party.

L. J. Truett, chairman of the congressional district campaign committee, introduced Congressman Rayburn.

FRISCO MAN MAKES BOND ON MURDER CHARGE

F. E. McIntyre, charged with murder of W. B. Staley, 58, south of Frisco late Monday, made bond to the amount of $3,500 Tuesday. The charge was filed here Tuesday. McIntyre is a merchant of Frisco. He and Staley were partners in a threshing machine and it is said that the killing resulted in an argument over the machine.

McIntyre, after the shooting, surrendered to Constable Ben Marshall of Frisco who brought him to McKinney and placed him in jail here. Staley died while being taken to Dallas, to St. Paul's sanitarium. McIntyre is 49 years old.

STATE INSPECTOR TO VISIT COLLIN SCHOOLS FOR AID

John L. Smith, state inspector of schools, with headquarters at Austin, Texas, will arrive in McKinney this week-end and Monday will begin an inspection of all forty-nine schools asking for state aid. County Supt. S. C. Stephens will accompany him on these trips.

John T. Conn of Austin was the state inspector of country schools here last year.

Mr. Smith has requested Prof. Stephens to make out an itinerary for him, and the two will visit the schools at the rate of four a day until all forty-nine schools have been visited.

County Superintendent Stephens requests all school trustees of the schools to be visited to be present on the day which their school will be visited and published below. He also urges that all teachers have their certificates present when they are visited by the state inspector, demanded by the state Department of Education.

Schools to be visited and the dates on which they will be visited follow:

Monday, Oct. 22, Pleasant Ridge, Shain, Prosper and Renner.

Tuesday, Oct. 23, Lovejoy, Lucas, Winningkoff, Thompson.

Wednesday, Oct. 24, Allen, Murphy, Parker, Morris.

Thursday, Oct. 25, Princeton, Culleoka, Clearlake, Laven.

Friday, Oct. 26, Chambersville, Weston, Kelley, Mantua.

Monday, Oct. 29, Arnold, New Liberty, Brushy, Aston Chapel.

Tuesday, Oct. 30, Neathery, Prairie Grove, Empire, Nevada.

Wednesday, Oct. 31, Midway, Spring Hill, Mesquite, Mt. Pisgah, Copeville.

Thursday, Nov. 1, Wilson, Climax, Momble, Barnett.

Friday, Nov. 2, Snow Hill, Blue Ridge, Pike, Valdasta.

Monday, Nov. 5, Moreland, Ruth, Asa Walker, Westminster.

Tuesday, Nov. 6, Altoga, Stiff Chapel, White Rock, Independence.

POULTRYMEN IN CONVENTION AT STATE FAIR

Various problems in the raising of chickens from the time of the hatching of the egg to the producing of a paying, laying hen came up for consideration at the sessions Monday of the Texas Baby Chick association, which opened a two-day meeting at the State Fair of Texas. The annual convention is being held in the educational room of the poultry building in connection with the poultry show.

Five essentials for good egg production, which may become inherited characteristics of the fowls were pointed out by D. H. Reid of College Station, head of the poultry department of Texas A. & M. college, who talked on "Breeding." These are early maturity, no winter pause, a high rate of production a month, consistency or about 315 eggs a year and no broodiness.

"The outlook for good prices for poultry meat is the best in the history of the poultry business," Reece V. Hicks of Kansas City, managing-director of the International Baby Chick association, told the poultrymen. Hicks praised the poultry show.

"It is one of the best in the country, and the turkey show is probably the best in the United States," he said. "The poultry show has already outgrown the new building into which it has been moved. The Dallas exhibition should become the best in the country with a showing of 10,000 birds."

More than seventy members are attending the meeting. They were guests of the Magnolia Seed company at a luncheon at noon, and at dinner at night as the guests of the Smith Incubator company. They were later guests of the State fair of Texas at the grand stand show. The meeting will conclude Tuesday with the election of officers.

Mrs. C. E. Buchanan and son, Junior, of Waco are guests of Mrs. J. R. Self in this city.

COLLIN COUNTY FOLKS HOLD OLD FASHIONED QUILTING

An old-fashioned quilting was held recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hobdy on the Celina pike, west of here. The occasion was in honor of the thirteenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hobdy, and the birthday of Mr. Hobdy's sister, Mrs. Annie Wyatt. At noon a delicious dinner was served to the large number of friends and relatives who were present as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Fields and daughter, Susie; Mrs. Buntey Crump and son, Mrs. John D. Morrow; Mrs. Eva Lacy of Dallas, Mrs. B. F. Lacy, Mrs. Nannie Thomas, Mrs. Goldie Thomas and children, Oma and Mry Julie; Keith Wayne; Mrs. Lee Cook, Mrs. Hugh Straughan and baby, Mary Jo; Mrs. Frank Cave and daughter, Eva; Mrs. Annie Wyatt and daughter, Joy; Mrs. George Smith; Mrs. Burl Martin and children; Mrs. Mary Straughan and son and daughter, Cecil and Una; Mrs. Sam Klutts, Mrs. Lucy Herndon, Mrs. Fate Glenn and Mrs. Rhody Glenn.

The day was most pleasant spent by all present.

BLOOMDALE SCHOOL OPENED MONDAY PUBLIC EXERCISES

A box supper will be given at Bloomdale Friday night, Oct. 19, for the benefit of the school which opened its session Monday, Oct. 15, with Prof. Rome Edwards as principal, and Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. C. D. Manning as assistant teachers. The trustees are Will F. Horn, Mrs. L. D. Franklin and W. H. Woods. The opening of school attracted a good attendance of pupils and a number of parents and friends were also present. Among those making talks besides the principal and teachers were Mrs. L. D. Franklin and C. D. Manning. Bloomdale is an excellent community, which believes in good schools and supporting them in a liberal way.

LEE BRASWELL AND SON PRIZE POTATO GROWERS

Lee Braswell and son, E. C. Braswell, of near Melissa are exhibitors at various fairs again this year, as as been their custom for a number of years past. They are successful farmers and pride themselves on raising good corn, popcorn, cotton, ribbon cane, oats kershaws and Irish potatoes.

At the Hunty County fair at Greenville this fall they won first and second premiums on white Irish potatoes; first and second premium on red Irish potatoes; first and second premium on popcorn.

At the East Texas fair at Tyler, they captured first and second premiums on both Irish potatoes and popcorn.

At the East Texas fair at Tyler, they captured first and second premiums on both Irish potatoes and popcorn.

At the Collin County fair, the Messrs. Braswell were defeated on getting either the first or second on Irish potatoes. Mrs. Strother received first and W. M. Felty received second on Irish potatoes. However, at his home county fair, here, Mr. Braswell received first and second on popcorn, first and second on oats; first and second on ribbon cane, and second on kershaws.

At the Texas State fair at Dallas, in progress now, Mr. Braswell has been notified that his Irish Potatoes made a clean sweep against hard competition, capturing first, second, third and fifth premiums. He has also been given premiums at the State fair on popcorn and cotton.

Mr. Braswell takes a cheerful outlook on life, although he is in his 80th year, and says that his days of usefulness are not in the past yet by any means. He loves the farm, knows how to till the soil and says he is not afaird of hard work, which is required to make a success at farming or any other calling in life so he thinks.

He is thankful that his advanced age he is so well and hearty and able to see, hear, eat hearty, sleep well and do some hard work in his crops, and about the farm almost every day of his life.

Uncle Lee has a wide circle of friends over the county and state, as a result of his jovial good nautre and his participation as exhibitor in county, district and state fairs, which he says are wonderful agencies for the development of farming and helping to improve the social and financial life of the farming class of people.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Sisk of San Antonio, Mrs. H. C. Baker of Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. H. A. Lane of Little Rock, Ark., are all spending a few days in this city with their aunt, Mrs. M. H. Garnett.

GALLOWS MADE READY TO HANG EDWARD HICKMAN

SAN QUENTIN PENITENTIARY, CAL., Oct. 16.—The rope for the execution Friday morning of William Edward Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker, 12-year-old Los Angeles girl, was in place over the gallows of this prison today.

In a cell near by Hickman continued calmly to read his Bible and write letters.

The trap had been made ready for the final spring and near by lay a black hood and belts.

Warden James B. Holohan was still considering the merits of more than 5,000 requests to witness the execution of California's most notorious criminal in this decade. The death chamber would be packed with 200 persons present and it is doubtful if that many will be allowed to attend.

Twelve witnesses are required by law. A large group of newspapermen and peace officers from Southern California also will be there.

A throng of visitors again besieged the penitentiary today and requested the right to pass by Hickman's cell and inspect the death chamber.

No one has been permitted to interview the prisoner and his movements were reported by guards of his cell. They said he spent much of the day writing letters.

It was said he did not display any emotion when informed his father would make a final attempt to stay the execution by appealing to Gov. C. C. Young for clemency Tuesday and would visit him here Wednesday or Thursday.

Hickman will see the sunlight for only two more days. He will be moved to a barren cell in the death house Wednesday afternoon to spend what he is convinced will be the final hours of his life.

LIVED 65 YEARS ON FARM WHERE HE WAS BORN

Lee Dugger and three sons have moved from his farm, five miles east of McKinney, to 407 North Tennessee street, this city, where they will reside in the future.

Mr. Dugger still owns the farm on which he was born 65 years ago, and has never lived anywhere else until he moved to McKinney this week, with the exception of a part of the first year that he was married, when he lived on a nearby farm for a few months.

Mr. Dugger had the misfortune of losing his wife, who died Sunday night, Oct. 7, and was buried in Pecan Grove cemetery.

Mr. Dugger's father, the late Wiley Dugger, was one of the very earliest settlers coming into this county.

Lee Dugger immediately, upon moving to town enrolled upon the Daily Courier-Gazette subscription list. The paper will be delivered to his home by special carrier every afternoon.

HONEY GROVE FARMER GETS SEED WHEAT HERE

T. R. (Finis) Wilson, an extensive Honey Grove farmer, has supplied himself with a truck load of Chandler Atkinson's fine purbe blue stem Mediterranean wheat for seeding this fall. Mr. Atkinson is advertising his wheat for sale through the medium of the classified column of this paper. He had 2,000 or 3,000 bushels of it that he raised himself, and did his own threshing, in order to preserve its purity and assure its freedom from mixture with Johnson grass or other noxious grasses, or weed pest seeds.

Finis Wilson in young manhood lived in McKinney. He now owns and operates several hundred acres of choice farm land near Honey Grove, but lives in the latter city. He expects to gather from 150 to 200 bales of cotton this year.

W. L. MAGERS HERE FROM WISE COUNTY

W. L. Magers is here looking after business interests. For the last three or four months, he and his good wife have been living at Alvord in Wise county at the home of their son, Roy Magers. Mrs. W. L. Magers is now in very feeble health, which we are sorry to learn. Mr. Magers states that the corn crop is good in Wise county this year, and also the peanut crop, but there is very little cotton. It has been too dry and not so much cotton is being planted in that county any more. He says that a fine watermelon crop was also grown there this year. Mr. Magers owns a residence in McKinney which he has rented out. He is the father of Mrs. John B. McKinney, wife of a prominent farmer living just north of town.

ONE-CROP IDEA BEING REPLACED.

Farmers everywhere are turning to diversification as the one surest means of forging ahead. The one-crop idea is fast being replaced with the idea to diversify. Many of our farmers are not only raising cotton, corn and other staple crops, but there is also a marked tendency to raise their own feed crops and more live stock. Also raise more of their own living and have less to buy from the store.

CAN'T BE DONE.

A subscriber quit us the other day because he read something in our paper he did not like. We have thousands of readers, and each and everyone has a different mind and looks at things entirely different. Suppose we tried to please each and everyone of them? Just can't be done. Some time we don't even please ourselves.

GREAT FAIR.

Some six hundred editors visited the Dallas Fair, Press Day, last Friday. The Fair officials treated the editors and their families just royally. The Dallas Fair has no better friends or boosters than the Texas editors. Great State is Texas. Great Fair is the Dallas Fair.

ALL-AROUND CROP.

Ginning continues in all communities in grand old Collin. Up to Oct. 1, over 32,000 bales had been ginned, as compared to about 23,000 bales on the same date last year. This is an all-round crop year for Collin.

WHAT NEXT?

What next? A two-room school house was stolen at Peace, Miss., recently. Police and citizens followed the tracks taken by the thieves for half a mile, then lost the trail. School children showed no sign of grief at all in the matter.

HIGHEST RECORD.

America produced 485,000 automobiles during August, the highest record in history, and that too with Henry Ford not in full production. No wonder we pedestrians are kept jumping all the time dodging motor vehicles.

KEEP YOUR NOSE TO THE GRINDSTONE.

Someone remarks that with your nose to the grindstone, you keep from sticking it in somebody else's business.

DON'T GET HET UP.

Don't get "all het up" over the presidential election. Al or Herb one will be elected.

CAN'T GO WRONG.

You can't go wrong if you will do half-way right.

MORE COTTON.

Farmers are making more cotton in Collin county than they first anticipated. With open, dry weather, the ground cracks open and the farmers have to have water in the old black land. We always make oodles of cotton. Now watch some smart alec step up and say we don't know what we are writing about. Go back in your memory storage and see if we are not right.

BOLTS AND NUTS.

This seems to be the year of the bolters. They are plentiful in both parties and they are not particular what section of the country they spring from. Nor is it certain that all the bolts are led by nuts. They are frequently sensible citizens who simply find themselves in uncongenial company.

ALL THE NEWS THAT'S FIT TO PRINT.

If it happpened and is worth while you'll find it in the newspaper. If you are not a subscriber, a reader, and you do not learn of the day's happenigs, don't blame us. We would like to have you as a reader.

RIGHT OF WAY.

A state law gives the pedestrian the right of way at unmarked crossings, but he will have to be right snappy to get it just the same. The graveyards are full of folks who thought they were right.

DON'T FORGET DATES.

Don't forget the dates of the annual Red Cross Roll Call in Collin county, Nov. 11 to Nov. 26. Prof. W. S. Smith is county and C. W. Graves is McKinney leader.

THE GREAT SILENCE.

Funny thing happened the other day. A woman testified that she was the silent partner in a business. Here is where the laugh comes in.

NOT HARD TO FIND.

If Mr. Ford knows any young intellectuals, he should be able to find a village smart-Aleck for his ancient village.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Ok.

That some jobbers and manufacturers are filled with admiration for the goods they sell. They should be!

But admiration alone does not sell goods. If they don't advertise and use modern selling methods, they will find the objects of their admiration getting nowhere—likewise their business.

It is always possible for jobbers and manufacturers to increase their business.

They could step into the field more lively via the advertising route.

Outside firms often get business out of local territory because they advertise and follow up the advertising by business-getting-ethods, while the home jobber and manufacturer set their sights for distant fields, overlooking home territory which is important.

The home city should not be forgotten.

The right method is to sell the folks at home by advertising.

Selling the folks at home brings an introduction to new fields.

FORMER COUNTY TAX ASSESSOR R. A. McLARRY FOR SMITH

Ere another presidential election rolls around many of us ex-Confederates will have passed over the river. I want my last vote to be for the best interest of my Southland and the whole country. I assert that the Democratic party has always been a friend to the South and I assert that Al Smith is in harmony with all the Democratic National platforms and presidents of the past. No statement of his conflicts with fundamental Democratic principles.

What has the Republican party done to merit the votes of the Southern people.

It took the ballot from the white men in carpet-bag days and put both the ballot and the bayonet in the hands of the ignorant and vicious negroes, and this condition would have probably continued to this day except for the aid of Tammany Hall. It passed the Civil Rights bill, which required all hotels, trains ,etc. to admit the negro on equality with the whites. You talk about the up-state patriotic Republicans who are fighting Al Smith, and the criminal Tammany Democrats who are supporting him. But every up-state Republican, being 17 in number, voted for said social equality bill while every Tammany Democrat voted against it, except three city Republicans and one Democrat did not vote. Said party again tried to enact the old Force bill in 1890, and Tammany Democrats opposed it. Hoover's recent order mixing negro and white clerks, shows that said party is still in favor practicing its carpet-bag acts.

You have heard of the Dyer bill, which said party is pledged to pass. Said Dyer is a bitter enemy of prohibition. The Wichita Falls Times quotes Dyer as saying recently in a speech:

"My faith is———we will see the day, and not far off, when the Federal government will———place enforcement officers in the Southern states charged with enforcing these two amendments (meaning 14th and 15th.)

"On November 6 that great politician Hoover, with the votes of prohibitionists and those swayed because of the religious question in the South, will drive such a thick wedge through the heart of the "Solid South" and their 'white supremacy" slogan that it will blow up their whole unconstitutional program."

It will also be remembered that during the war Hoover was given the authority to stop the use of foodstuffs for brewing beer, and he said it was best to use about 4,000,000 bushels of grain monthly for beer so people would not drink so much hard liquor, and he said: "It is mighty difficult to get drunk on 2.75 per cent beer."

You who love the South and white supremacy, will you vote for such men as Hoover and Dyer and make possible the return of the crimes of carpet-baggery? This writer who followed the flag for which Lee fought and Jackson died will vote for the Democratic party that has always befriended the South, and against that party, judging by its past record, stands ready to force negro equality upon the South when it deems it expedient.

R. A. McLARRY.

COUNTY SUPT. S. C. STEPHENS FOR GOV. AL SMITH

Hon. H. L. Davis, Chairman, Democratic Executive Committee Collin county.

As a nominee of the Democratic party for a county office, I have frequently been asked whether I am supporting Smith or Hoover, and why?

The very fact that I am a nominee of the Democratic party, going into the primary election, and agreeing to abide by the action of the primary, is prima facie evidence that I am a Democrat. And being a Democrat, I feel morally bound to support the nominee of the party, Alfred E. Smith. Besides being the nominee of the Democratic party he is, unquestionably, one of the profoundest thinkers and wisest statesmen of this age and generation, as has been exemplified in his public life. As governor of the great Empire state of New York for eight years, he is responsible for more wholesome and constructive legislation than any other governor before him.

I am for Al Smith, because he is not only a great thinker, and a great statesman, but is also honest, patriotic and philanthropic. His every heart beat is in unison and sympathy with the toiling masses, as against the favored classes.

I am for Al Smith because we are sick and tired of Republican greed, graft, and corruption.

I am for Smith as agajnst Hoover because Smith is a Democrat and Hoover is a Republican, and because of the fundamental differences between these men and the principles for which they and their parties stand, as exemplified in their records, and in the platforms and records of their parties.

I am for Smith because he is true to the principles of Democracy.

I am for Smith because I believe he will make an honest effort to enforce the prohibition laws. I am for Smith because I believe that Mr. Hoover and his associates are responsible for the intolerable condition of then non-enforcement of national prohibition laws.

I am for Smith because of what he has done for the public schools of New York. His whole attitude on education has been one of foresight and progress. He has always been ready to take his position with the most advanced thought on the subject of public education.

For these and other reasons, I favor the election of Alfred E. Smith to the presidency of the United States of America.

Very truly yours,
S. C. STEPHENS.

DEMOCRACY, DEMOCRAT, AND TEST.

For a period of two months or more we have read many articles and have heard or read many speeches in which the words "democracy" and "democrat" occurred, and in which was discussed, directly or indirectly, the question, "What is the test of membership in the Democratic party?" In view of the fact that these words were used in various senses, some correct and some incorrect, and that some odd tests of membership were suggested, it would seem that we might be justified in devoting a little time at least to the study of the meanings that standard usage gives to these terms and to a little consederation of the question of what gives a voter the logical right to call himself a Democrat.

First, let us take the word "democracy." What are the senses in which this term is used by careful writers and speakers? They are these: (1) government by the people; (2) a state or nation governed by the people; (3) the principles and policies of the Democratic party; (4) the members of the Democratic party collectively. These are the chief senses in which the word is used.

Next, what are the senses in which the term "democrat" is generally employed The principal are the following: (1) a believer in democracy; (2) a member of the Democratic party.

In the light of the foregoing definitions ,we see that the term "democracy" is used in both general and specific senses, they begin with capital letters. If, then, these definitions and statements are correct, we have what we may call small-letter democracy and capital-letter democracy, and a small-letter democrat and a capital-letter democrat.

A small-letter democrat, of course, is a person who believes in small-letter democracy. In this sense of the word, every Republican is a democrat; so, too, is every Hoover Democrat; so, also, is evry Socialist; for every one of these believes in small-letter democracy, whatever else he may believe in as a partisan; that is, he believes in democracy as a form of government.

But can one be a capital-letter democrat merely by advocating and extolling small-letter democracy? It is obvious that he cannot be. If he could, every Republican, every Hoover Democrat, every Socialist might properly be called a capital-letter democrat. No, if our definitions are correct—and they are correct if the dictionaries ar authorities—to be a capital-letter democrat is to be a member of the capital-letter democracy, and to be a member of thecapital-letter democracy is to be a member of the political organization called the Democratic party.

Now the test of membership in that party is very simple. We have to consider only how the voter becomes a member of it and how he severs his relations with it to understand the test.

To become a member, the voter finds, is unlike becoming a member of some fraternal organization. The person who wishes to become a member of a fraternal society, must first make a formal application, then await the acceptance of that application, and finally undergo what is called an initiation; whereas the voter who wishes to become a member of the Democratic party has only to declare himself a Democrat and to vote for the success of the Democratic ticket.

To withdraw from the Democratic party is also unlike withdrawing from a fraternal organization. The member who wishes to with draw from a fraternal organization. The member who wishes to withdraw from a fraternal socity files a formal resignation, asks for a demit, or just fails to pay his dues and allows the secretary to drop his name from the records; but the voter who wishes to withdraw from the Democratic party files no resignation, applies for no demit, or seek no permission at the hands of any man; he just pitches his hat, so to speak, into the ring of a rival party and votes for the success of that party, and thus ceases to be a member of the Democratic party.

The test, then, is not whether the voter says he is a Democrat or not, but whether he casts his ballot for or against the success of the Democratic party at the polls.

LOU ROBERTS.

SMITH'S DEFEAT WOULD PRESERVE PARTY USEFULNESS

Editors: I have apparently fallen on evil times. My friends are in distress over my political status. I would like to set forth my reasons.

Many of my Smith friends are in deep concern as to what will become of the preachers who have dared to express themselves on the present political situation. They seem to forget that the Methodists and Baptists notified them in advance that they would not support a wet candidate. In the face of this they (Smith followers) deliberately showed the red rag to the bull, and then were surprised when he accepted the challenge.

As I see it, two factors forced Smith on the country:

First, the wet contingent who desire to destroy the prohibition law.

Second, the small bunch who every four years see visions of post offices and other kindred pubnc office emoluments.

The rank and file of the people had no more voice in it (nominating Smith) than the man in the moon had.

Hoover Best Qualified.

I think Hoover is the best qualified man ever nominated for president of the United States.

I also think Smith is eminently qualified, but having taken out my first naturalization papers in order to get to vote for state-wide prohibition I can not vote now with its opponents led by Gov. Smith.

I was one of a very few men, at the invitation of the late Dr. E. E. King, who attended the first meeting that called the first precinct election here in the first prohibition county election. I also furnished a horse and buggy for the most effective pro speaker we had. I personally participated in the next county and state prohibition campaigns.

Can't Reverse my Conscience.

If the democratic nominee must declare his intention to break down what I have stood for during my entire political life, my conscience comes first, and the democratic party afterwards.

I commend to my fellow-citizens the recent declaration of Texas' foremost and most useful citizen, Dr. George W. Truett.

I also commend to those who put so much store on the principles of the democratic party the conclusion reached by a distinguished local citizen, who is both a philosopher and a philanthropist, that "there is no difference now between the two parties. Each of them has got alongside the other, and are now picking feathers from each other's tail."

Smith's Defeat Would Save Party.

The only way I see to preserve the democratic party for usefulness in the future is to snow Smith under so bad that his friends will take a back seat in the future.

If the Volstead act needs amending, let its friends, instead of its enemies, do the amending.

I would love to see an aspirant for county office with "guts" enough to defy the party lash, and backbone enough to speak out in meeting.

So mote it be.

SCOTTY, the blacksmith.

Conscience and No Conscience.

No sane person can conscientiously believe that the sale of intoxicating liquors blesses the human family, financially, morally or spiritually. Millions of the best people on earth conscientiously believe it to be the greatest curse that ever afflicted a people. The present difference between the wets and drys is conscience and no conscience. Conscience can be hardened so the love of liquors may have seared some people's conscience.

R. C. Horn.

VOTING ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NOV. 6

Few people inform themselves before voting for or against an amendment to our constitution as to the real purpose of the proposed change to be made.

Should our constitution be changed is not a debatable question. Conditions in our state change often that require changes in our constitution and many laws. We have an amendment to vote on in the November election with reference to pensions.

The constitution requires that seven cents of every dollar of taxes collected in this state become a special fund to pay pensions to indigent Confederate veterans and widows of Confederate veterans. It limits the amount to be paid any one to $25 per month paid quarterly. In a few years the veterans will all have passed away, but this fund will remain idle until the constitution is amended so as to give the legislature the constitutional right to appropriate it for the benefit of the taxpayers of the state.

Our present constitution requires a widow of a veteran to have been born not later than 1861. This prevents many widows who were born only a few years later from receiving the pension. This date is to be made later. A veteran or a widow must have resided in the state since 1910, which cuts out old men and widows who have come here to live with their children the remainder of their lives. Every voter who loves and honors the old men and women should vote for this amendment.

R. C. HORN.

HON. L. J. TRUETT TO SPEAK AT WESTMINSTER

Hon. L. J. Truett, chairman of the Democratic Congressional District Campaign committee will speak at Westminster at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 23, at a rally for the Democrats of that community in behalf of Gov. Al Smith and the party nominees. All Democrats are cordially invited to attend the speaking. Mr. Truett is an able speaker.

Steve W. Latham, who has been in the Odd Fellows Home at Ennis for the past three months, is visiting his old home here and many friends. He will also visit his daughter, Mrs. Corb West and family at Princeton. The Odd Fellows Home at Ennis was recently built for the benefit of their older members both men and women who may wish to take advantage of its hospitality. Steve is a natural born optimist and is cheerful and jolly with everybody and has friends by the score who are all glad to see him.

Nine-Tenths Preventable

Nine-tenths of all the diseases of the American people can be traced directly to constipation, doctors say. Constipation throws into the system poisons which taint and weaken every organ of the body and make them easy victims for any germs which attack them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and financial losses. Herbine, the good old vegetable cathartic, will prevent constipation in a natural, easy and pleasant way. Get a bottle today from Smith Drug Company.

Records of a Busy Life—No. 82

ELD. R. C. HORN

Some Records of 1910.

I was now by invitation of the Elders and Deacons of Vineland church giving them full time preaching except occasional visits at other points for funeral and one or two discourses. As Mrs. Horn and I were alone and the afflicted and I could not fill regular appointments away from home, I taught the adult members in the Bible school each Sunday and when the weather and roads were favorable for an audience I preached. I also preached at Ash Grove, Franklin and Bois 'd Arc near home. Chas W. Graves was running my farm. I was not eating idle bread for each week day found me busy. I had a contract with the grocers in McKinney to furnish them eggs, butter, and fruits once or twice each week. My orchard paid me better than my farm in proportion to labor required and expense. Gathering fruit from large apple and pear trees is tiresome work. I sold 15 bushels one day and several every day except Sundays. The early maturing fruit brought the best price. My choice Red June apples sold in McKinney for $1.75 per bushel. Defective specimens were ground up and cider and vinegar sold at a good price. A farmer who raises plenty of fruits, vegetables and meat for home uses and some for market to buy that which he cannot raise is the most independent business man to be found. No farmer who owns his home should depend on cotton alone for a living. E. W. Kirkpatrick, a pioneer fruit grower gave me much aid by furnishing me young fruit stock to test. At least once a year he visited my orchards for buds or seed. We usually had him stay for dinner. He never came empty-handed. In his buggy would be a sack of the best flour made by the McKinney Mill. At another time a large water melon or two. He did much to encourage fruit and vegetable culture. We were comrades in the Southern army during the war between states and close friends to his death. I often miss him yet.

Deaths and Funerals.

In August I was called to hold or to assist in many funerals. Among deaths recorded I mention the following well-known people in the county: J. B. Pond, shoemaker of McKinney; Sam Hamilton of Farmersville; J. E. Carruth, Confederate veteran of Weston; Aunt Mary Cox, mother of the Cox brothers of Roland; Mrs. Albert Franklin of McKinney; A. P. Carter, recorder of deeds in County Clerk's office; Joe A. McKinney of Van Alstyne, whose mother has reached 96 years of life here. I was called to Stony Point to hold a funeral service over the body of Mrs. Mary E. Holly, mother of Mrs. Jack Sportsman. Another death, the loss of which was great was that of W. B. Carnes, Secretary of our local Chamber of Commerce. He was a very useful man as preacher and business man. Aunt Virginia Waters 95 years old and more than 75 years, a devoted Christian. I held her funeral at Corinth church. She was the oldest person whose funeral I've held except old man Cooper who was past 100 years old. Few people live to be as old as either of these.

Rains During 1910.

We had several long dry spells during the year. Our first rain fell February 1st. We had two showers on the 26th. What gave a good winter and early spring season was an 8 inch snow January 5th, and on 7th it was cold as temperature was 12 above zero.

Crops.

While our rains were only showers with a few good rains, we made good crops except corn, which was light. Charley Graves made on my farm 264 bushels of wheat on 15 acres and 391 bushels of oats on 15 acres. We had two good crops of alfalfa.

Another Birthday.

On April 26th 1910, I celebrated my 66th birthday. A good attendance of neighbors and a number of friends from McKinney and other places came to enjoy the day with us. A fine picnic dinner was served to all present. We were presented with a purse containing $18.50 and Mrs. Horn, a cripple, was given an invalid wheel chair. This chair has not only served her many times but has been loaned to many other invalids. She is now in her 79th year, she has to keep it for her own use at home. It has done good service for 18 years.

Touch For Sight.

Thomas B. Scott whom I mentioned in a former article lost his sight. He purchased a small store near Bloomdale school. He had Mrs Don Flippen as a clerk but he often waited on customers and had learned where most things were. He could make any change in silver, but not in bills. He was an uncle of Mrs. John Dowdy and not her father as I formerly stated. He passed away several years ago and his body lies in Scott cemetery. This cemetery was named for his father, Senator J. P. Scott.

Other Deaths.

Dr. Ben Throckmorton, a noted physician of McKinney, died February 25th, 1910. He was a son of Gov. Jas. W. Throckmorton. W. A. (Delphy) Melton of Allen died Jan. 6th.

Notice.

This will be my last of this series until after the November election. Those papers have been very liberal with space and I do not wish to abuse their liberality. I wish to write on some present issues of importance before the election, after which I shall resume my Records for a few more articles.

Baptists' Home Coming.

The "Home Coming" held at the Baptist church this week was a success from the beginning. On Thursday evening former pastor, Rev. H. E. Fowler of Dallas brought a soul-stirring message. Friday night Rev. F. G. Rogers of Spur, a former pastor also brought a splendid message and a part of the church history was read by the church clerk. On Saturday night Rev. J. Wesley Smith, dean of Marshall college who was pastor at Allen for four and one-half years, brought a good message to a large crowd and the remainder of church history was read. On Sunday morning the regular Sunday school service was held at 10 o'clock and many former members of the church were found in the classes. Just before the preaching service, the first minutes of the church, which were written October 13th, 1878 by J. C. Jones were read. Charter members of the church present were called to the front and gold ribbons with dates 1878-1928 painted on them were pinned on them. Only two were present. Mrs. Mary Warrington of Wayne, Oklahoma and Mr. R. B. Whisenant of Allen, after which "Amazing Grace" was sung. Dr. F. M. McConnell of Dallas brought the morning message using as his subject, "The Church." At the close of the services there was one addition who was given the hand of fellowship as she stood between the two charter members. Following dismissal pictures of the crowd were made and then all partook of the feast of good things to eat that the ladies of the church had prepared. At 3 p. m. came the ordination of Rev. Ray Summers. Rev. Summers was presented to the presbytery by M. Whisenant superintendent of the Sunday school and a life long friend of his The examination of the candidate was made by Rev. G. O. Key and Rev. A. L. Leake; the ordination sermon was by Rev. K. O. Fugate under whose ministry Rev. Summers surrendered to preach. The text used was "Blessed Are Ye that Sow Beside all Waters." This was followed by laying on of hands by all the presbytery, Revs. Key, Leake, Fugate and Hickey. Rev. Leake then gave the charge to the young minister and the church, which concluded the service. The evening sermon was given by Rev. G. O. Key, which concluded the "Home Coming" services. Many from out of town attended the services and the church was spiritually blessed and her members will long remember her 50th aniversary.

Drury-Hume.

Morris Drury and Miss Alta Hume were united in marriage in McKinney Saturday afternoon, Rev. Jas. T. Wilson, pastor of South Wilcox Church officiating. They were attended by Misses Lucile Drury, Mary and Senor Opha Hume. The groom is a Chambersville boy, born and reared here and is eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Drury. He is a young farmer of splendid business ability. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hume of Lone Elm. She is a young lady of a very lovable character and is one of our most popular young ladies.

The wedding came as a surprise to all, but the many friends of both parties unite in wishing them a happy voyage on the matrimonial sea. They will make their home at Chambersville.

Melvin Cox is now with the Eagle Barber Shop in Denton.

It was our pleasure to see the "King of Kings" now showing at the Ritz. It is a most wonderful picture and Mr. Brockman is to be commended for his bringing it to McKinney. Trust we may have more like it often

Tom Love, and Dr. L. N. D. Wells, will address, what is expected to be one of the largest crowds ever assembled there. The committee in charge, who were here yesterday, stated that several are planning to attend from other counties ,as well as a large crowd from McKinney and surrounding territory.

Former Collin Lad Dies at Home in Emory

Reuben Alexander, 9 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Alexander of Emory, died Oct. 2, at his home there. He had been sick three weeks of typhoid fever.

His father, Mr. Alexander, had recently moved to Emory from the Bishop school district, where Reuben attended school the past year.

Little Reuben was of a sunny disposition and was loved by all his schoolmates. He talked while sick, of getting well and moving back to Bishop, where he could go to his school again. He leaves brothers and sisters, and many small friends both in Bishop and his new home, Emory.

PROMINENT ALTOGA FARM COUPLE ENROLL FOR DAILY

J. D. Malker, who lives on his excellent little farm near Altoga, called Saturday to enroll his name upon The Daily Courier-Gazette subscription list. He gets his mail on Route 3, McKinney. Mr. and Mrs. Walker have long been readers of our weekly, and now want to take the daily on order to get the news a little oftener from their county seat and elsewhere over the county. Mr. Walker states that his cotton is some better than he expected when he commenced picking it. His crop will average close on to a half bale per acre.

He also made a good corn crop this year.

Mr. Walker is a highly esteemed citizen. His wife, was formerly Miss Lora Dunn, who was the daughter of the late Rev. W. H. Dunn and granddaughter of the late Rev. Giles (Pappy) Dunn, two beloved old pioneer Collin county Baptist preachers. "Pappy" Dunn lived to be about 92 years old before he passed away. Mrs. Walker is a sister of Dr. W. T. Dunn.

M'KINNEY MAIL CARRIER MAKES STATEMENT

LUTHER SNIDER SAID HE HAD SUFFERED WITH INDIGESTION AND RHEUMATISM FOR 8 YEARS—IMPROVED BY ORGATONE

Luther Snider, well known city mail carrier, and residing at 306 S. Church street, like hundreds of other well known McKinney people, has found Orgatone, the preparation that is accomplishing such remarkable results throughout the South, to be just what he needed, and now gives the medicine his unqualified indorsements for the benefit he has derived from its use.

"For eight years," said Mr. Snider, in his statement a few days ago, "I suffered terribly from indigestion, constipation, and rheumatism, and was never able to get any lasting results until I took Orgatone.

"Most everything I would eat made me sick at the stomach and often times press against my lungs causing shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. I was badly constipated and rheumatism bothered me so especially in my legs that I didn't sleep well or feel well a good part of the time.

"I think Orgatone is a great system builder, and I certainly appreciate what it has done for me. I felt a marked improvement in my condition by the time I had used a half bottle. My stomach gradually got regulated and my appetite returned. What I eat now digests properly and seems to give me strength. I have taken three bottles, and feel a whole lot better than I did. My constipation is gone and I sleep much better at night, as those rheumatis pains in my legs don't bother me like they did. Orgatone is certainly helping me in my case, and I will take pleasure in telling anyone about it."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in McKinney exclusively by the North Side drug, Dyer & Jones, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative, who is meeting the public daily and charges nothing to explain his theories on health and hygiene.

L. R. Wallace Making Better Crop This Year

L. R. Wallace who lives on route 3 McKinney enrolls for the Daily Courier-Gazette for a year in advance. His cotton is turning out one-fourth bale per acre. He made a good corn crop and his oats made forty bushels per acre. But his wheat was not very good, making only nine bushels per acre. He had an acre and a half of mighty good onions also, but, of course, they did not bring him anything on the market. Mr. Wallace has been living on the farm of John E. Burrage for the past six years. He is both an excellent farmer and a high-class citizen. We welcome hmi back on our list.

Nature Thought of Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle, and can be bought from Smith Drug Company.

UNITED STATES HOTEL INDUSTRY WINS HIGH RANK

Denver, Colo.—With a total capital investment of $5,024,000,000 and annual sales aggregating $1,315,000,000 the hotel industry of the United States now ranks ninth among the Nation's great enterprises, according to a report of the eighteenth annual convention of the American Hotel Association of the United States and Canada.

While the expansion enjoyed by the hotel industry during the past few years was generally known by the hotel men, many said they had not recognized its magnitude as a whole until the report was submitted by New York City Hotel accountants. Records of the association and government figures were used in computing the data, the results being as of May 1, 1928.

The report showed a total of 25,950 hotels in the United States with a total of 1,521,000 rooms and 576,000 employees. The total number of hotels will vary with any enumerator, the report stated, with the interpretation of just what constitutes a hotel, but in this survey every effort was made to be conservative.

Among the 24 great industries of the United States the survey indicated that the hotel business ranked seventh in the number of employees, seventh in the total capital investment and fifteenth in the value of products or service.

In Canada the survey showed 1000 hotels, with 65,000 rooms, 28,000 employees, a capital investment of $175,000,000 and annual sales totaling $49,000,000.

Less than an average of 25 per cent of the tourists' or convention delegates dollar is spent in hotels, delegates were told in another report.

The survey showed that an average of 23 per cent went to hotels, 18 per cent to restaurants, 31 per cent to retail stores, 10 per cent to garages, 8 per cent to theatres and 10 per cent for miscellaneous expenditures. Of the amount spent in hotels, approximately 71 per cent or 18 cents of the visitor's original dollar, was spent locally by the hotels, leaving approximately 53 cents of the visitor's dollar going ultimately, directly or indirectly to business groups other than hotels.

The report stated that since the beginning of community advertising hotels have borne a larger share of the expense of such campaigns than was fair.

HERBERT HOOVER BUSY WORKING ON ADDRESSES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—In the seclusion of his study, Herbert Hoover worked Thursday upon the speeches he is to make at Boston and New York on his visits there during the next two weeks.

The Republican presidential candidate for the first time since he opened his personal headquarters, on Massachusetts avenue, let an entire week day pass without putting in his appearance there.

While he was pondering the phraseology of the two addresses, final arrangements were being made at his headquarters for his Boston trip. Accompanied by members of his family and personal staff and a corps of newspaper correspondents, the nominee will leave for the New England metropolis Sunday night at 11 o'clock.

Except for operating stops at Baltimore, West Philadelphia, New York and New Haven, Conn., his train will not pause until it reaches Springfield, Mass., the following morning at 8:30 o'clock.

At Newtonville the nominee will detrain for an automobile ride of an hour and a half which will end at Boston Common. There he will be welcomed by the Mayor and make a brief talk.

The candidate will spend the afternoon at the home of Governor Fuller and his party will leave Boston on the return trip at 10 o'clock shortly after his speech at the arena. His train will make five operating stops on the return trip at Providence, New Haven, New York, West Philadelphia and Baltimore. It will reach Washington about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

While the Republican candidate was mapping out his next speeches of the campaign, Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, was speeding toward Chicago where he will make a study of the Western situation.

Box Supper at Mt. Olive.

There will be a box supper at Mt. Olive Baptist church on Friday, Oct. 19. Proceeds are to go to the church building. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Grace E. Taylor and grandsons, Dickie and Jimmie Davies, spent Sunday in Dallas and attended the State Fair.

The doctor recommends this treatment for feeble finances; take a brisk walk to the Northeast corner of the square, grasp pen firmly in right hand, go through motions of filling out deposit slip, and shove deposit vigorously through to Mr. Drake or Mr. Quesenbury. This is guaranteed a sure cure.

EDUCATOR FINDS NEED FOR CHECK ON PROFESSIONS

New York.—A system of education in which the state will regulate the number of persons who may be trained for specific professions, in order to prevent an over-supply in certain fields, is recommended by Prof. Harold F. Clark of Teachers' college, Columbia university.

Professor Clark, in discussing current trends in education, expressed the opinion that there is a need for "directional" regulation of education in addition to the general supervision now exercised by the various states over matters such as curriculae and courses of study.

State education commissions to direct this regulatory work will be one of the outgrowths of the process of social evolution, Professor Clark declared.

"The persons who are earning high wages today would have made them without the help of education," he said. "You can take an equal number of equally capable persons, giving one group education and putting the other group to work. You will find that an education does not help much. It can even have an opposite effect. Our studies when published will show this. Naturally if you compare non-educated persons with educated persons, you will find the latter earning more money because that type of person is going to school today. To show results of education you have to compare two groups of equally capable persons."

John F. Chandler, prominent Chambersville farmer and highly esteemed citizen, was in the city yesterday.

ABSENTEE VOTING BALLOTS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Today, October 16, is the first day of the twenty-day absentee voting period, according to Miss Minnie Burrage, county clerk, who gave out the statement this morning. There will no doubt be many who will be out of the city on the date of the general election, Nov. 6, and they are requested to send their name now so that the ballots can be mailed. The next period of absentee voting will be ten days before the general election. According to Miss Burrage, many inquiries have been made and many are expected to vote that will be out of the city on November 6.

AL MADE DRY LAW AND RELIGION POLITICAL ISSUES

At Morgantown, West Va., on Sept. 29, Deets Pickett made the following address before the West Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church

◆ ◆ ◆

Should Not Have Been Issue.

Prohibition should never have been a partisan, political issue in this campaign. Every effort was made by the prohibitionists of the United States to prevent such a misfortune. It is today a partisan political issue because Gov. Al Smith of New York in defiance of his party, in contempt of the dry Democrats of the South and West, and in hostility to the Christian churches which have declared that "the liquor traffic can never be legalized without sin," forced this issue into the campaign.

◆ ◆ ◆

Nation-Wide Protest.

The possibility of this folly and offense against Christian sentiment was foreseen. Thirty-two temperance organizations issued a solemn warning. Leaders of the church protested and strove to avert the calamity. The Democratic convention recorded its conviction that the party should stand for law enforcement, but refrain from an expression of opinion as to the policy.

◆ ◆ ◆

Spurned All Except "Wet" Advice.

Gov. Smith, and he alone, rejected all warnings, spurned the advice of all but his wet advisers and demanded that prohibition be made the issue of the campaign. He appointed a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment as manager of his campaign. That director insulted the two-thirds dry majority of the Democratic party by declaring prohibition to be a "damnable affliction."

Tossed Religion Into Politics.

And now Gov. Smith is making a similar monumental mistake. He protests against "bigotry," and "intolerance," but he allows his followers to impugn the sincerity of distinguished Protestant churchmen; we hear of "political parsons," and "the church in politics." The naivete of a candidate who will wrench from the church a moral issue, toss it into the political ring, and then deny the right of the church to follow, is astounding.

His State Government Plan.

Does Gov. Smith realize that his proposition to put the state governments into the business of selling intoxicating liquors is obnoxious to the moral and religious sense of millions of Christian people? He will readily understand that the government should not engage in the business of prostitution, and yet to uncounted thousands of Americans, the thought of givernment complicity in the liquor traffic is quite as horrible.

A Methodist, being a citizen, has a vote, and being a Christian has a sonscience. He should use both in devotion to his country and to his God.

September Movement Fruit and Vegetables Is Disappointing

Austin, Texas, Oct. 15.—"Movement of fruits and vegetables from Texas during September was disappointing," Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, declared in his survey of carlot shipments for the month.

"After the watermelon and cantaloupe season ended, loadings dwindled to but one or two cars a day," he continued. "At the beginning of September, prices for many vegetables were at such discouragingly low levels that farmers were not justified in gathering the crops as they matured. However, quotations advanced as the month-end approached and prospects are much brother for the fall and early winter harvest. Dry weather has caused late crops to deteriorate in some cases, and fall planting has been delayed in a few districts where precipitation has been light over the summer. Acreage planted to fall crops is expected to be about equal to that of last year.

"The outlook for the orange crop is good and the grapefruit harvest is expected to be larger than that of a year ago. The pecan harvest is expected to be larger than that of a year ago. The pecan harvest is likely to be smaller this year, but the value of the crop is expected to be greater, due to higher prices.

"In September but 96 cars of fruits and vegetables were loaded in Texas against 1,063 in August and 202 in September, 1927. While a sharp seasonal decrease is to be expected from August to September, the decline this year is much greater than usual. It is quite possible that September will prove to be the low month of the year; shipments should increase substantially during the next six or seven months. Shipments in the third quarter made a much better showing. During the three months, loadings totaled 5,630 cars, compared to 3,756 cars in the same period last year. Watermelons accounted for more than three-fourths of the shipments, while loadings of onions were far ahead of those of last year.

"Tomatoes were also shipped in larger volume as were potatoes, grapes and pears declined sharply. No apples were shipped.

Dr. Robt. L. Cowan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and children, James, Lucy Ann and Robert, of this city enjoyed a visit to the State fair in Dallas yesterday.

MACMILLAN TELLS HOW ODD HOTEL PLAN WON OVER LABRADOR INDIANS

LODGING AND FOOD FOR NASCOPIC TRIBE BREAKS DOWN BARRIER THAT HAS PREVENTED STUDY OF A STRANGE PEOPLE OF THE FROZEN WASTES

NEW YORK—In northern Labrador, where nameless rivers cut their way through jagged mountains to the sea, there has just been erected one of the strangest "hotels" in the world.

This "hotel" contains four beds, a stove and a supply of fuel. Its guests, natives of the Nascopic tribe, are believed by Commander Donald B. MacMillan, the arctic explorer, to be the most primitive Indians of the North American continent today.

Anthropologists had never been able to study this tribe. No one could approach and make friends of them. They remained apart, apprehensive of the Eskimo and the white man. By an unforeseen incident, Commander MasMillan was able to gain their confidence. He built a "hotel" for them, which they began to visit in increasing numbers.

As a result, Commander MacMillan expects to obtain important anthropological data through a study of them during his next explorations in Labrador.

During the expedition, from which he returned recently, he charted nearly 4000 miles of new territory by the use of dog team and snowmobile.

◆ ◆ ◆

Reported Families in Want

"We built our base on Anetalak Bay, an uncharted harbor 25 miles from Nain," Commander MacMillan said in describing his recent explorations. "Our first contact with the Nascopic Indians came when two of their men reached our camp with word that their families were starving.

"We fed them and clothed them. The result was that we soon had more Indians than we knew what to do with. We then constructed an Indian house in order to give them a place of their own. Dr. Duncan Strong of the Field Museum in Chicago attached to our party as an anthropologist, passed six weeks with them and found them friendly indeed.

"They are a hardy tribe, much like the western Indians, tall, lanky, and raw boned. I have seen them going around with bare chests and legs when it was 30 to 40 degrees below zero. Dr. Strong believes that they are a branch of the Cree Indians and were driven north to escape the conflicts in progress in their original homes. The tribe today numbers perhaps more than 200."

Commander MacMillan will add a seaplane to his equipment on the forthcoming expedition, on which he intends to leave next June. He can accomplish more in one day toward mapping the 300 miles of uncharted coastline of North Labrador than would be possible in months by dog team, he said.

"You can go for mile after mile in that country and discover uncharted harbors and name them if you want to," he continued. "Right back of our base there is an unnamed river whose head waters are 40 miles up the mountains, as beautiful a stretch of water as I have ever seen. The mountains themselves, dropping for sheer hundreds of feet down to the sea, are like the Swiss Alps. And there are lakes—thousands of them—uncharted and unnamed."

Commander MacMillan as he sits and discusses the asbestos, graphite, mica and iron resources which Labrador contains, might be taken for a business man, but when he talks of its scenic grandeur and of the spaces on the may which can be filled in only by laborious exploration, there comes a new note in his voice and a different light in his eyes.

"There's a big waterfall that comes tumbling over the hill near our base," he says. "We have electric lights from a gasoline-driven plant and we may put in a turbine and have hydroelectric power.

◆ ◆ ◆

Wake of the Birds

"We estimate," he said, "that there are from 300 to 400 species of birds in Labrador, only about 200 of which have been recorded. Last year we found a lapwing and a European coot, both of which were never known before in Labrador. They were probably blown over from Europe in a tremendous gale that occurred while we were there. There is much to be done in the banding of Labrador birds and the tracing of their migration. I know of one bird that was banded with the expectation that it would be found again in Patagonia. It was found in France."

Geological research also will play an important part in the forthcoming expedition, Commander MacMillan said.

◆ ◆ ◆

Finds Labrador Coast Sinking

"All of the books say that the Labrador coast is rising," he continued. "Our research has shown that it is sinking. High up, 400 feet above sea level, there are beaches still left on benches of rock which show evidence of having once been beaten by the waves of the sea. Geologists have drawn their conclusions from this evidence. It proves only that the coast of Labrador did rise at one time.

"Our subsequent research has shown that the coast movement has since reversed. Our bench marks and levels disclose a sinking movement."

The numerous lakes in Labrador, affording "continues" landing fields, make aerial mapping particularly suited to the expedition's needs, Commander MacMillan said. Open water is available for landing from July to October, while an airplane can land on skis during three additional months, giving a long flying season. But despite the fact that he will use aircraft for mapping work, Commander MacMillan does not believe that further north in the Arctic regions, the airplane has yet proved of practical value.

"It is an entirely different thing to speak of mapping work in Labrador, where landings are available for a seaplane, and flying over the Polar sea, where landings are at best extremely hazardous," he said. "Even if airplanes are developed that could land safely, there is still the great factor of risk in attempting to return to land on foot.

"The magnificent success of individual flights in the Arctic should not lead to the immediate assumption that commercial aviation will use the Polar routes. That region is too inhospitable to permit even the saving in distance to overcome the advantages of the more delightful methods of passage by the present routes. My feeling is that the developments in aviation will be such that the somewhat longer distances of the more southern routes can be used, involving considerably less hazard."

PLAN EXPLAINED ABOUT NOVEMBER GENERAL ELECTION

Voters of the nation ar agog over the candidacies of Smith and Hoover for the presidency but, in reality, the voters will not cast their ballots directly for either Hoover or Smith. Not the individual voters, but the states of the union, will do the electing. Democrats and Republicans are appealing to citizens for their ballots, but it's the electoral vote of the states that spells victory or defeat.

The nation's total electoral vote is 531. The minimum to elect is 266. The distribution among the states is on the basis of one for each senator and congressman. Texas with two senators and 18 congressmen has 20 electoral votes. But neither senators, congressmen nor federal officeholders can serve legally as electors.

Voters of Texas on Nov. 6 in the general election will choose 20 presidential electors. Four sets are offered—Democratic, Republican, Socialist and Communist-Labor. Names of the candidates themselves will not appear on the ballot.

Democratic Electors.

Democratic electors in Texas, in the order in which their names will appear on the ballot, are:

James Young, Kaufman county.
Miss Oveta Culp, Harris county.
H. G. Brown, Titus county.
C. L. Brachfield, Rusk county.
Fred E. Horton, Hunt county.
J. W. Woods, Dallas county.
J. F. Lane, Robertson county.
Hayne Nelms, Trinity county.
Mrs. J. O. Ross, Harris county.
J. F. Barnett, Matagorda county.
Mrs. J. M. Loving, Travis county.
Bart Moore, McLellan county.
W. M. Moore, Wichita county.
Marshall Eskridge, Bexar county.
Casar Kleberg, Kennedy county.
H. V. Fisher, Brewster county.
H. P. Brelsford, Eastland county.
Lloyd Fletcher, Potter county.

Republican Electors.

The names of Republican electors, in the order in which they will appear on the ballot, are:

Mike H. Thomas, Dallas county.
Perry McFadden, Jefferson county.
Ed King, Lamar county.
A. E. Sweatland, Angelina county.
B. J. Peasley, Smith county.
E. E. Hanna, Grayson county.
J. B. Graham, Ellis county.
Tyler Haswell, Brazos county.
H. C. Smith, Liberty county.
Wallace Pratt, Harris county.
Arch Campbell, Brazoria county.
W. S. Drake, Travis county.
Mrs. Margaret Conger, McLennan county.
Joe Gebelman, Parker county.
C. W. Johnson, Young county.
Bodo Holekamp, Kendall county.
John T. Lomax, Cameron county.
Mitchell Waldrop, Val Verde county.
A. F. Brock, Runnells county.
L. A. Kennedy, Collinsworth county.

Democratic electors were nominated by the state Democratic convention at Beaumont on May 22, while the Republican ticket of electors was selected at the Republican state convention in Dallas, Aug. 14.

The general election over and results determined, the electoral college come into being, an organization which never meets as a whole, but which is charged with the duty of electing the president and vice-president.

The scheme has worked out very different from the way it was expected to. Today electors have no discretionary power. They are pledged to vote for the nominees of the party that nominates them. Though not legally bound, only one man has failed to vote as he was expected to. In 1796, Samuel Miles, a federal elector in Pennsylvania, voted for Thomas Jefferson instead of John Adams.

Simple plurality determines the naming of electors; the winners may have fewer votes than the total of their opponents when the opposition vote is scattered among a number of opponents. It is possible for a state's electoral vote to be split, but hardly regarded probably. Two weak parties may join forces and present a fusion ticket sharing the electoral vote according to predetermined arrangments. Voters may express a preference and scratch certain elector nominees.

The electoral college system makes possible the election of a president who has a minority of the popular vote as in the case of Hayes in 1876, who received [illegible] votes less than Tilden, and in case of Harrison in 1888, who received 95,534 fewer votes than Cleveland.

DEMOCRATS IN HIGH GLEE AS SPEAKERS LASH G. O. P. MISRULE

and Mr. Rayburn immediately launched into his speech and delivered a vigoroue speech for Smith and the nominees of the party.

◆ ◆ ◆

Rayburn Speaks.

The audience which heard Mrs. Hughes and Congressman Rayburn was apparently overwhelmingly for Smith and the party nominees, for there were frequent outbursts of approval of the remarks of the speakers. Rayburn's declaration that "As long as I honor the memory of the Confederate dead and respect and revere the memory of my Confederate father, and his devotion to our gallant Southland. I will not vote for the electors of a party which sent the carpetbagger and scalawag to the prostrate South with saber and sword to crush the white civilization," brought perhaps the loudest applause, and rebel yells rent the courtroom. A group of veterans of the Confederacy heard the address and voiced their approval of the speaker's remarks.

◆ ◆ ◆

Hoover's "Race Equality" Order.

Rayburn appealed to his audience to reprove the Republican nominee by their votes, pointing out that Hoover had abolished the segregation rule in the Department of Commerce and quoted from a page of the Congressional Record, containing a letter from a women employee protesting against the order of the commerce secretary, forcing the white women of the department to use the same lavatories and comfort stations with negro women. He charged that Hoover's order was a result of a trade for "nigger votes" at the Kansas City convention, and he appealed to the "white men" of the South to uphold the white racial standards by casting their votes against Hoover.

Rayburn twitted Tom Love and Cato Sells, who, he said, had been the beneficiaries of favor of the Democratic party as long as they could hold office, and then turned against the party for political reasons, because they saw a chance to become office-holders under Hoover, if the Republicans were successful.

He chastised O. B. Colquit for becoming "conscience-stricken" because Smith is a "wet," and declared that when Senator Morris Sheppard was writing the prohibition law of the land, Colquitt was leading the anti-prohibitionists of the state.

Rayburn pointed out that Woodrow Wilson vetoed the Volstead act, and that he, as a member of congress, helped pass the law over the president's veto, and he stood ready to repeat that action if an attempt was made to tear down the prohibition structure.

◆ ◆ ◆

Democratic Leadership Praised.

Rayburn paid a tribute to the leadership of Wilson and declared that America, the great republic of the West rose to its highest pinnacle under the administration of Wilson, a Democrat. During eight years of Democratic rule the speaker pointed to numerous constructive measures enacted, naming the Federal Reserve act, the War Risk Insurance act, of which he himself was the author, the Underwood-Simmons Tariff act, which replaced the Dingley Tariff act, and other legislation bearing the Democratic stamp.

Turning abruptly to the Republican administration during the last seven and a half years, Rayburn lashed the Republican party and declared that the administration has been characterized by the greatest riot of corruption and lack of leadership in the last fifty years' history of the nation.

◆ ◆ ◆

During Democratic Rule.

"During the World war we raised $26,000,000. We expended $19,000,000,000, and loaned our allies $9,000,000,000. When Wilson retired from office the Republicans sent a dozen smelling committees throughout America and Europe hunting and hoping to find some single piece of corruption. They returned empty-handed, and were forced to report that they could find nothing in the way of dishonesty.

"What happened in the Harding administration? the speaker asked his audience.

"The story of Charles R. Forbes, head of the Veteran's bureau, who was convicted and sent to the Federal penitentiary for crookedness in handling the funds of his department, is well known.

"Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, in charge of the public doman of the country, borrowed money from Doheny and Sinclair, and paid them back by bartering Teapot Dome and Elk Hill oil leases, at a price so small in comparison of value that Doheny himself said he would make $100,000,000 on the deal. Denby, secretary of the navy, stupid and incompetent, sat as silent as Hoover while these proceedings were going on.

◆ ◆ ◆

Corruption Stressed.

"Oh, they say Hoover knew nothing about these transactions. Well, if that is so, then Hoover is too dumb to be a clerk in the most insignificant department of the government.

Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States sat in the cabinet with Hoover, and made the most revolting bargains of the administration. Pardons were brokered as if they were commercial chattels. Privilege was sold over the attorney general's desk and immunity was bartered as if it were a commodity in trade. There was an orgy of corruption never before equaled in the history of the republic. Daugherty was the chieftain. An enraged public opinion demanded his resignation, but Coolidge, whose example, Hoover says he will emulate and in whose footsteps, he says he wants to walk did not ask him. Finally, whipped into a fury by the obstinate impudence of Daughtery, the United States senated passed a resolution demanding his resignation. He resigned. Did Coolidge rebuke him for his high disregard of American honor and probity He did not. Coolidge thanked him for his "services and regrettd his resignation.

"Hoover was in the cabinet all this time. He said nothing then; he has said nothing since. If he knew about what was going on, he was unfaithful to the trust reposed in him by the people for not bringing it to the open and purging the cabinet of this ring of crooks. I repeat that if he did not know he hasn't got sense enough to be president of the United States, for everybody in Washington knew it.

Rayburn paid his respects to Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, who, he charged, owned stock in a distillery, by his own admission. Rayburn then asked why should a man own any stock at all in a distillery if he is in charge of prohibition enforcement.

The speaker defended Tammany Hall, and told of its 139 years' history, and named some of the accomplishments for democracy by the organization.

A large lithographed picture of Governor Smith hung just behind the speaker's table.

A large number of women were in the audience and the speakers complimented them for their interest in political affairs.

YOUR HOME TOWN

STUDY THIS PROBLEM.

We are reminded by Glen Stiff, member of the Etex Chamber of Commerce Highway committee, to give more thought and study to traffic laws existing at the present time. The great number of motor-driven vehicles, causes the problem to be an important one to us all. Many accidents, he says, occur from carelessness or ignorin gtraffic rules and regulations. Speeding is another source of constant danger. Motorists should not race on streets or public highways, as it entails danger both to the one engaging in it and to the public in general.The East Texas Chamber of Commerce embraces 67 counties within its organized limits. The organization has an active highway committee that is giving special study to the improvement of roads and to developing a spirit of greater caution in order to reduce the hazards of our ever increasing highway traffic.

THE MEDICINE YOU NEED.

E. W. Howe, is responsible for the following bit of philosophy: "The joy of feeling fit physically is reflected in a clearer and more useful mind. You may read and study forever, but you come to no more important truthful conclusions than these two: (1) Take care of your body (eat and exercise properly), and your mind will improve; (2) Work hard, and be polite and fair, and your condition in the world will improve. No pills, tablets, lotions, philosophies, will do as much for you as the simple formula I have outlined. The formula is not of my invention. Every intelligent man of experience since time began has taught it as a natural fact."

A NOBLE SPIRIT.

Nevada contributes $68.50 for Florida storm relief work. That is fine. That Southeast Collin town, itself a beneficiary after the awful tornado which visited it May 9, 1927, knows the suffering a storm-stricken towns goes through with, and they came to the relief of another section in the same condition which they were once in. Some of the finest type of citizenship in the entire county resides at Nevada. George H. Jones, cashier of the First National bank at Nevada, made the remittance of their citizens. Anna, through Miss Gertrude Arnold, has also made a splendid contribution to the storm-stricken area.

FOR THE BLUE AND GOLD.

An eager, live-wire group of husky young manhood left this morning for Gainesville to play their first conference game of the season. The Lions looked pretty good in workout this week and all asserted they were "rearing to go" in the game this afternoon. A large group of students and town fans motored over to Gainesville to see today's game. Let us hope that the Lions cover themselves with glory in this their first conference game this year.

WHAT WE NEED.

Sometime ago, Senator Guy D. Goff, in an address delivered before the West Virginia Journalism conference, said: "We don't need Socialism, or Imperialism, or free trade, or public ownership, or state and national control of trusts, as much as we need honest men in public life and private enterprise who have standards of morals and conduct higher than insatiable self-interest."

REPRIMANDING.

We are told that often it would be better if the speaker were rebuked for dullness instead of reprimanding the audience for inattention. A McKinney pastor said recently that he felt it was his own fault if his audience was inattentive or if some brother chanced to go to sleep while he was preaching. "If I can't make my subject interesting enough to command attention or to keep folks awake, then I feel that the fault lies with me, not with members or my congregation."

ROTARIANS HEAR FIRE PREVENTION TALK FRIDAY

McKinney Rotarians enjoyed another splended meeting last Friday noon at the First Christian church when a committee composed of W. K. Waller, chairman, A. M. Scott and R. F. Newsome had charge of the program for the day.

A delectable luncheon was served the men by the ladies of the First Christian church.

Mr. Waller introduced the speaker of the day, Robert Smith, fire insurance representative of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Last week was fire prevention week over the North American continent and the speaker was secured here for a talk during that special week. He made an impressive address on fire prevention, asserting that it was our duty to take care of our property, and help our neighbor care for his.

President Will J. Rhea presided and Secretary Jack Andrews was at his accustomed place.

Dr. Bryce Miller of Northern Ohio was a guest of Dr. E. L. Burton.

SUDDEN PASSING MRS. M. G. BURK SUNDAY MORNING

Mrs. Mary Belle Simpson Burk, 57 years 10 months and 11 days old, died suddenly at her home on Josephine street Sunday morning, October 14, at 9:30 o'clock. She had been in ill health for a long while, and had been subject to heart attacks for some time. While her passing was not entirely unexpected, yet it has cast a pall of sorrow and sadness over her many relatives and friends residing here and at other places.

The deceased was born December 3, 1870, in this county. She was a daughter of the late John A. Simpson and Susan Whittaker Simpson. She was married to Mack G. Burk, at Vernon, Texas, December 24, 1890, who survives her.

Besides her devoted husband, the deceased is survived by two sons, Roscoe Burk, the Dallas News and Dallas Journal representative of McKinney, and by Garrett Burk, whose address is not known. She is also survived by two brothers and one sister: Ed Simpson of Ralls, Walter Simpson of Pilot Point and Mrs. Alice Christian of McLean, Texas.

The deceased had lived in McKinney for the past sixteen years. Her husband is in the insurance business in this city.

She was converted and joined the Christian church August 3, 1899.

Funeral services were held this (Monday) afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Van Alstyne Christian church, conducted by Dr. Clifford S. Weaver and Eld. R. C. Horn, both of this city. Interment followed in the Van AAlstyne cemetery.

The funeral cortege left the family residence from Josephine street at 2 o'clock for Van Alstyne. The Sam J. Massie & Son Funeral home of this city had charge of funeral arrangements.

M'KINNEY GETS 1929 MEET OF PRESBYTERIANS

Dr. E. O. Whitwell and Mr. J. H. Sneed of this city are now attending the annual session of the synod of Texas, which consists of the eleven presbyteries, in Texas and Louisiana, the Westminster church of New Orleans being the host, of which Dr. John C. Barr is the pastor.

During this morning's session, the synod voted unanimously to hold next year's meeting in the Central Presbyterian church of McKinney, this comes as a great compliment to the Central church, and all McKinney, as it will be the largest delegated body that has ever convened in McKinney, there being something like 40,000 Presbyterians in Texas, however this church is represented in Collin county with twelve well organized church, in fact it is the third largest denomination in our county.

The synod is next to the largest court in Presbyterianism, and it is very rare that a church with 200 members ever has has the privilege of entertaining the synod, but we who know the Central church, know that she will take of synod in a manner that will be an honor to McKinney.

The R. & R. Ritz confectionery has installed a large sign, covering the entire north side of the building, with the wording, "McKinney Hi Lions," and two large "M. H. S." that are attracting considerable interest among patrons and visitors to that place of business on the northwest corner of the square.

The Ritz, Roy L. Brockman and Lee Elliott, proprietors, thus prove they are solidly behind the Lions, by giving so much space to telling the world about our high school football team.

PROSPER SCHOOL DOING WELL UNDER PROF. C. A. BELLOWS

Prof. C. A. Bellows, who is serving his third year as superintendent of the Prosper independent school, transacted business in McKinney Saturday. We had the pleasure of greeting him. He is one of our county's very best and most efficient young educators. He has had two and a half years' college training, and is working on his college degree, which he expects to receive in the due course of time.

The Prosper school has seven teachers, including the music teacher. One of Prof. Bellows' teachers this year is Miss Dora Duncan of McKinney, a college graduate, who is teaching in the high school deparement under Prof. Bellows.

The latter is a son of C. H. Bellows, highly esteemed old Northeast Collin farmer living near Blue Ridge, where the father and son were both born and reared. Prof. Bellows' Grandfather Bellows came from Missouri to Collin county about 60 years ago and settled near Blue Ridge, where he lived during the remainder of his life.

The Prosper school is entering now upon its second month of its fall term.

LEE BRASWELL VETERAN MELISSA FARMER VISITOR

Our old-time farmer friend, Lee Braswell, of near Melissa, was in McKinney Saturday.

Uncle Lee reached his 79th birthday on Sept. 14, this year. He was born in DeKalb county, Tenn., Sept. 14, 1849.

When he was only 17 years old, he came to Collin county, where he has continuously resided for 62 years.

Although he is in this 80th year, he still works on his farm at hard labor almost evry day and recently has been gathering corn and picking cotton and making a full hand at both.

He states that he has already gathered twenty-eight big loads of corn and cribbed it, and expects to get two or three more loads yet. He raises the Yellow Dent corn, and made a fine crop this year. He values a good corn crop very highly, as it affords food and feed for both man and beast. He has some good hogs to feed his corn to, which will make his family met for the next year.

Mr. Braswell says that this is the third year that boll worms and boll weevil have almost entirely destroyed his cotton crop, but that he is learning to get along with less cotton by diversifying his crops.

Mr. Braswell is best known as a successful Irish potato grower. His potatoes are always exceptionally good and he usually carries off the highest premiums when he exhibits them at district, county and state fairs. His potatoes have won first and second premium at this year's Texas State fair at Dallas. Mr. Braswell has been a regular reader and subscriber of our weekly newspaper sever since its publication was first commenced forty-five years ago. Such staunch and loyal friends help smooth the pathway of country editors and make his lot and calling more enjoyable on this good old earth.

W. P. BICKLEY URGES COMPLIANCE TO PRINTED REQUEST

Our old friend, W. P. Bickley, formerly of Farmersville and McKinney, but now of Austin, writes us the following note: "I see in a late issue of the Courier-Gazette that a member of the McKinney family at Flint, Mich., is writing a history of that pioneer family from its earliest record to the present date. He invites the descendants of Collin McKinney in Collin county and in this section of Texas to send him anything of interest concerning the genealogy of the McKinney family."

Mr. Bickley expresses the hope that this request will be complied with. He says that some years ago a family of Farmersville was appealed to for the same purpose, but the matter was neglected, or was not seriously considered and allowed to pass. The book was published without mentioning this family branch, and so now they are regretting that they failed to take advantage of the opportunity offered them to provide their family history for record in permanent form. Mr. Bickley adds "I hope this will not be the case with the Collin McKinney descendants of North Texas."

Mr. Bickley and his beloved old wife are temporarily residing in the state caiptal, while their son-in-law and daughter, Hon. and Mrs. H. G. Chandler are making it their home during Mr. Chandler's term of service as sassistant attorney general of Texas.

E-TEXAS C. OF C. OFFICIAL URGES TRAVEL CAUTION

Glen Stiff of McKinney, member of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce highway committee, in a recent interview with the press, urged the general public to give more study and try to understand the traffic laws more perfectly than they are now thinking of them.

Mr. Stiff states that with so many autos and other motor-driven vehicles, trucks and cars going hither and thither over our streets in towns and highways through the rural districts, it is a matter of greatest importance that all should obey traffice laws in order to reduce mishaps and serious accidents to life, limb and property.

Many accidents, he says, occur from carelessness or ignoring traffic rules and regulations.

Speeding is another source of constant danger. Motorists should not race on streets or public highways, as it entails danger both to the one engaging in it and to the public in general.

The East Texas Chamber of Commerce embraces 67 counties within its organized limits.

The organization has an active highway committee that is giving special study to the improvement of roads and to developing a spirit of greater caution in order to reduce the hazards of our ever increasing highway traffic.

GOV. DAN MOODY FIRST SPEECH FOR AL SMITH

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 15.—Reiteration of his support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidential nominee was made by Gov. Dan Moody in a speech at a local Democratic rally. It was his initial speech of the campaign.

"I have always voted the Democratic ticket and in this election I will vote it from top to bottom," Moody said.

◆ ◆ ◆

Won't Abandon Party to Antis

He reiterated his support of prohibition and declared that Governor Smith could not change the prohibition laws if he is elected President. He urged that if all prohibitionists should desert the Democratic party they would leave it in control of anti-prohibitionists "who would bring shame to it."

"Prior to the Houston convention I was opposed to Smith's nomination," Moody said. "I conducted a campaign and made speeches to prevent his nomination. But in that I was unsuccessful. He was nominated and I accept the philosophy of Jefferson or the will of the majority.

I stay with my party and shall support Governor Smith as the Democratic nominee for President of the United States."

◆ ◆ ◆

Dry Fanatic, He says

Characterizing the Eighteenth Amendment and all laws enacted pursuant thereto as the "greatest economic legislation passed since the Civil War," Moody said he did not agree with Governor Smith's personal stand on prohibition.

"I am for prohibition in its most rigid form," he said. "You may call me a fanatic on that and I will admit it. But I do not have to measure my affection for the party with my affection for prohibition. I am opposed to Governor Smith's program on prohibition and will do everything in my power to prevent its enactment. I recognize that he has a right to his views as I have to mine. The party has not committed itself to the principle of prohibition, but to the honest and rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws.

"Should all prohibitionists abandon the party, none would be left except those opposed to prohibition. In my judgment, should that happen the Democratic party would receive the derision of the people of America.

◆ ◆ ◆

Prohibition Entrenched

"Prohibition must be changed by vote of the national Congress. Laws can not be changed except by vote of the national Congress. I do not underestimate the powerful influence of the chief executive over Congress, but I know that members of Congress respond to public opinion. I know that two-thirds of the members of the House are elected from prohibition section of the country and more than half of the Senate members come from prohibition territory. I am convinced they will not submit an amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment or amend the laws that have been passed for its enforcement."

Moody expressed his belief that the Democratic party would lose none of its present control in Texas in the general election Nov. 6. He said voters in that election will not vote for or against a candidate, but rather, for or against a party.

Harold Murray, son of Judge and Mrs. T. O. Murray, who recently suffered a broken leg when his motorcycle was backed into by an automobile on the public square, has so far recovered as to be able to be taken home Friday. Harold was very badly injured and his limb had to be reset again after three weeks.

DAVIDSON SUNSHINE COTTON BEST AT TEXAS STATE FAIR

J. M. Muse of this city, in viewing the Texas State fair, exhibits, at Dallas, which is now in progress, was very much interested in the cotton planters' contest that is staged this year.

He saw hundreds of stalks of fine cotton, many of them very heavily fruited.

But he was more than gratified to notice that the best stalk of cotton, in his opinion, in the entire exhibit is a big stalk of the Davidson Sunshine variety, that was grown by a Mr. Moulton of Clairmore, Okla.

This huge stalk of Collin originated and Oklahoma grown cotton was recently awarded a $250 cash prize in the National Cotton growing contest, sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck company.

This particular stalk had about 300 bolls and squares on it, and is the means of selling many bushels of certified Sunshine cotton seed to those visiting the fair this year, and interested in the better varieties of cotton. Mr. Muse pays a merited tribute to the life work of our fellow citizen, J. W. Davidson, who originated the Sunshine cotton, and has developed it to its present high standard of yield and lint.

This cotton is still being improved in his breeding blocks near McKinney by Mr. Davidson.

As Mr. Muse states, Collin county farmers don't realize the magnitude of the growth of Davidson Sunshine cotton now throughout the state and South. It has grown into popularity by leaps and bounds in recent years with the actual dirt farmer. It is popular with Collin farmers and increasing in popularity with them every year that goes by, things Mr. Muse.

GLENN STIFF CALLS ATTENTION TO NEED ROAD WORKING

Texas is lagging behind many other states in the matter of marking her public highways.

The East Texas Chamber of Commerce, through its highway committee, of which Glen Stiff of McKinney is a leading member, is urging chambers of commerce in the various towns and cities of East Texas to appoint local committees to see that the highways of their particular section of the state are more plainly marked than they are at the present time. Markings should be so conspicuous that strangers need never to worry about their location.

Various service clubs and other organizations of local citizens are also urged to take up this matter of more thoroughly marking the pikes, highways, and even the country roads in every section of East Texas. The East Texas Chamber of Commerce is an organization made up of members from 67 counties, whole limits are included in the territory of the organization.

Mr. Stiff says that he believes chambers of commerce and service clubs, such as the Lions and Rotarians, could also render an invaluable service to the state by looking after this matter in their respective localities.

Mr. Stiff is giving much thought to better roads and highways, and to maintaining them as well as to having them so thoroughly and plainly marked that any stranger will not be perplexed or confused as to his whereabouts in traveling over them, but will always be able to know where he is and that he hasn't taken the wrong road.

It is always annoying to a motorist to feel a degree of anxiety or uncertainty about his location and knowing whether he is on the right road or not.

Mr. Stiff avers that the general public is not only entitled to well maintained highways, but is also entitled to have them so plainly marked by some standard system that the pleasure will not all be taken out of travel by a sence of uneasiness or anxiety about whether one has taken the right road or not.

Seeking Missing French Submarine

Paris, Oct. 12.—Search was begun Thursday for the French submarine Ondine two days overdue at Bizerta, the fortified seaport of Tunis.

The submarine was on an endurance run from Cherbourg and was due at Bizerta Tuesday. The Ministry of Marine, while expressing the belief that absence of news was explained by a breakdown of the wireless, ordered naval vessels and airplanes to search.

The normal crew of the Ondine is forty officers and men. It has a displacement of 600 tons on the surface and 765 tons when submerged.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Burton of Dallas spent the week-end in McKinney visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Burton.

FIND CONSIDERABLE INTEREST IN RED CROSS ROLL CALL

As the time draws near for the annual Red Cross roll call in the county, more interest is being shown by citizens in that annual event, the dates this year being Nov. 11 to Nov. 26. Miss Elma S. Jones, nutritionist, say sthat she finds considerable interest manifested on the part of citizens in that event.

Prof. W. S. Smith has been made annual roll call chairman for the entire county and Chas. W. Graves has been made chairman for this city. Chairmen of other places over the county will be announced later. At least 500 to 1,000 are expected to enroll when the drive begins in the county. The cost is only one dollar, which enrolls you in the Red Cross for a year, the money going into Red Cross funds that are spent for the relief of victims of disasters wherever they may occur, and in the promotion of health work among the people generally as is being done in this county through the work of Miss Jones, the fulltime nutrition worker, now located here.

HENRY C. BARLOW ELECTED DIRECTOR COLLIN CO. BANK

At a meeting held Thursday morning Henry C. Barlow, prominent young stockman-farmer of ten miles west of McKinney was elected a director of the Collin County National bank.

Mr. Barlow and his late father before him have been patrons of the bank for many years, and in recent years, Mr. Barlow has shown his faith in the institution by various purchases of stock until now he is a substantial stockholer. He is a large land-holder of West Collin, who operates the Collinsbrook farms, one of the leading stock breeding farms of the South. He raises Hampshire sheep and Scotch shorthorn cattle, and owns perhaps the largest numbers of imported animals of these breeds in the Southwest. He also raises the purebred Hampshire hogs and never fails to make liberal winnings at the state, county and district fairs and live stock shows on all his show animals.

He is considered one of the leading sheep men of the country, and frequently ships animals to many parts of the United States. He is also in demand as a judge of shorthorns and sheep at various shows, and is secretary of the Texas Shorthorn Breeders' association, and is considered an authority on this type of beef cattle.

The Collinsbrook farms were established here prior to the Civil war by the grandfather of Mr. Barlow, who emigrated here from Missouri, and the old home of the Collins' is still standing, and occupied by Mr. Barlow and family, although it is more than 75 years old.

The Collin County National bank was established here more than forty-five years ago. It has a capital stock of $150,000, deposits of $1,312,526.31, surplus and undivided profits of $64,472.93 and resources of $1,771,999.24, according to a statement of its condition issued Oct. 3.

Its board of directors is now composed of L. A. Scott, T. E. Craig, F. B. Pope, Giles McKinney, J. S. Heard, Dr. J. C. Erwin, Henry W. Warden, Thos. Johnson and Henry C. Barlow.

Officers are L. A. Scott, president; Herny W. Warden, active vice-president; Thos. Johnson, vice-president and cashier.

J. W. M'CULLOUGH TO SPEAK IN INTEREST DEMS

COMMENT OF FOLKS ABOUT RED CROSS

Illustrating the general interest in the annual Red Cross Roll Call, the dates being Nov. 11 to Nov. 26, Miss Elma S. Jones, nutritionist, tells us of some of the expressions she hears from day to day concerning the great work the American Red Cross is doing for humanity in general.

An ex-soldier was heard to say, according to Miss Jones, "The American Red Cross is one fine organization. It was the first to administer aid 'ever there.'"

Another remarked, "The American Red Cross is doing a lot for the ex-service men."

A McKinney mother said, "I am so glad the nutrition work is going forward in our schools again this year. Besides helping the kiddies, it also helps the mothers and others in the home."

MISS INEZ BLAINE BRIDE W. R. BLAIR OF DENTON

A beautiful wedding ceremony which took place recently was that of Miss Inez Blaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Blaine, of near Celina, who became the bride of William Richard Blair of Denton, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents Saturpastor of the Celina Methodist church of Celina, officiated. They left immediately on a wedding trip to South Texas, after which they will be at home in Denton. The bride is a graduate of the College of Industrial Arts of Denton, and is a former student of the University of Texas. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omage sorority.

STORY IN THESE PAPERS ATTRACTS GREAT INTEREST

Sometime ago, these papers carried a story concerning the attractive appearance in which the Cities Service Oil station in this city was kept by its popular manager, J. W. McKinney. The story found its way to New York, and into print in "The Empire," a newsy magazine published each week by the Cities Service people. Their comment and the story they used from our papers follows:

"Station commended; McKinney C. S. Station's Appearance Gets Editorial Comment.

"Down in McKinney, Texas, the appearance of the Cities Service Oil company station evoked editorial comment in the McKinney newspapers. The comment follows:

"Despite the continued dry, hot weather of the present month, there are some places over the city, by constant care and attention, that are keeping their premises fresh and attractive.

"Among this class is the Cities Service station, located across the street, just west of the post-office building.

"J. W. McKinney, the popular manager of this local concern, is keeping the corner in perfect condition which often causes comment of local citizens and other passers-by.

"Mr. McKinney has a green hedge growing luxurlantly about the place, and has other flowers and shrubs which form a striking contrast to the black and white structure, colors of Cities Service stations all over the country.

"Mr. McKinney is assisted in his dtuies by Clyde Boone, an accommodating young man who, like Mr. McKinney, has many friends in the city and county, who are congratulating them on the splendid appearance of this station."

The Los Angeles Seen From Frisco

The Los Angles, Navy drigible, passed to the west of Frisco Tuesday slowly wending its way north to Lakehurst, N. J. after a tour of Dixie. The long, gray gas bag looked beautiful resting, apparently, in space about ten or more miles away from us, and the movements of the big blinp was barley perceptible here. There were 41 people aboard. Evidently some of the passengers were taking shots of Dallas Lake and the hill country of Denton county, becausa the blimp raced at a speed of about 60 miles an hour until it reached about Carrollton, then slowed down to a bare crawl. Whenalmost due west of Frisco it was turned almost due east, but soon pointed again to the north and contuned on its way, reaching Kansas City before dark. About 40 per cent of the population of the State is thought to have view the dirigible on this trip.

County Judge-Elect E. W. Merritt was a McKinney visitor at the State Fair in Dallas Friday.

CHEAP MONEY, MORE ABOUT IT

No other loan company will loan you money for less than 6%. You pay the Federal Land Bank 6% and it pays your interest and your loan off. You will never have to pay more. In other words, if you pay the Federal Land Bank 6% they will give you the principal. You see, 6% payment to us makes your interest less and the principal less each year.
You may pay your interest once a year if you wish. You may pay your loan off any day after 5 years without one cent penalty.
If you MUST owe on your land, treat yourself right, get the BEST loan.

WOULD BE TRAGEDY.

Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Dallas, president of the Southern Baptist convention and presiding officer of the Baptist World Alliance, issued a signed statement on Sept. 29th that:

"I do not believe that the pulpit should be the forum for personal and partisan political discussions, but that it should be the forum for the enunciation of moral and religious principles, of vital moment to every group and type of citizenship. My whole life as a preacher of the Christian religion has been lived in harmony with that conviction.

"I would add that I cannot, in consequence, in the present condition of our country and of the whole world, vote for any man for the presidency of the United States whose attitude bespeaks nonsympathy with the long-fought-for temperance legislation that has at last been written into the fundamental law of our nation. The issues involved are too momentous, both for today and for the long tomorrow, for any citizen to be careless with respect to such legislation. As a moral and religious teacher, I am in conscience compelled to say that I believe it would be a tragedy, both for America and for the whole world, for any man to be elected to the presidency of this great land who is not in the fullest sympathy with the eighteenth amendment and with the faithful enforcement of the laws thereunder."

JUST ANOTHER STEP FORWARD.

Sherman recently had a new enterprise to decide to locate with it. It is the proposed home for aged members and orphan children of the Supreme Forest, Woodmen Circle, whose headquarters now is at Omaha, Nebraska. This is the woman's organization of the Woodmen of the World and is a strong order. The Col. Dupont Lyon farm of several hundred acres on the outskirts of Sherman has been bought and will be improved. We acknowledge the receipt of a neatly printed post card from Editor Pat Mayse of the Sherman Democrat with this notation on it, "Just another step forward for Sherman." The reverse side of the post card shows the big modern building with beautiful landscaping that is proposed for erection within the near future.

HOW DO THE DO IT?

Considering our weaknesses, it's amazing that some of us get along as well as we do.

OVERSTOCKED.

Although the market is flooded with pictures of Tunney and his bride the cameramen appear to have gone nutty in the matter of chasing the pair all over Rome for just one more shot. This film-running is getting to be a public jest, anyhow, and the amount of time, money, courage and ingenuity wasted in snapping useless flickers would make an efficiency expert weep.

THE NEW TEXAS.

Said that in one Texas county all the regular offices are now filled by women—ranging from sheriff to coroner and back again. This would seem to be a startling condition to the Texans of a generation ago. They would think the country was going to the dogs instead of the skirts. It would sure make old Sam Houston bat an eye.

GETTING BETTER.

Three years ago, Dr. Doran, now Prohibition Commissioner, estimated that from thirteen to fifteen million gallons of industrial alcohol were diverted to illegitimate uses each year. Last year, in his opinion, the amount was not in excess of one million gallons.

JAMES H. LOWERY AT FAIR.

Texas newspaper men were delighted to have among them on press day at the Texas State Fair again this year, their able, popular fellow worker, James H. Lowery, veteran editor of the Honey Grove Signal. He is recovering from a critical illness. "Buttermilk" Jim Lowery is a household word throughout Texas. His brilliancy as an editorial writer and gifts as a humorist and public speaker have given him a prominence second to none.

DRIVING VOTERS OUT OF THE PRIMARIES.

Whether certain persons can be barred from the Democratic primaries because they refuse to support the entire Democratic ticket is a question, of course, for the courts to decide, when it reaches them. Whether it would be good policy to bar them is a question for the officially constituted authorities of the party to decide.

The Republicans, who are just beginning to get together what resembles a party organization in Texas, are struggling to make this one of the permanently doubtful states. The only reason they are finding their work difficult is that a vast majority of the citizens vote in the Democratic primaries and make the primaries have all the effect of elections.

If every person who votes for Hoover in November and all who voted for Butte and Peddy, several years ago, and for Ferguson, when he ran on the American party ticket for president, are barred from the future primaries a substantial group of voters will be released from the party obligation. Barred from the primaries would they continue to support the Democratic nominees? Would not barring them increase the importance of the November election Most of those who would be barred are habitual voters. Those who would like to see Texas a doubtful state have every reason to hope that the barring procedure will be carried to a drastic conclusion.—Dallas Times-Herald.

The Gainesville Signal, like the Tioga Herald, is in need, and it needs right now. It says: "No doubt subscribers often wonder how a paper keeps running without any money. If a couple of thousand Signal readers would pay us an official visit, square up behind and get in front a year, we would be able to beat the banker out of a lot of interest. The fellow who don't pay for his paper helps to make poor editors and rich banks."—Tioga Herald.

Collin county poultry raisers are going to organize an anti-theft club. Probably going on the theory that if the law won't protect them in their property they will load up their shotguns and stand guard. That is one way to do it, and a fellow feels like exercising the right of self-defense after his flock has been depleted by thieves.—Sherman Democrat.

T. H. Scharff, hustling farmer living one mile west of Gunter, was a business visitor in McKinney Saturday. We had the pleasure of a visit from him. He states that the cotton crop around Gunter is not quite so good as it was last year. However, they raised a good oat crop in that section this year.

George P. Brown Writes.

Hon. H. L. Davis, chairman Democratic Executive committee.

Sir: You requested me to inform you how I intend to vote, and my reasons therefore. In response to that request, I wish to say:

I have been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for a long time.

Every four years the general conference of this church elects one or more bishops (if the demand exists) for the term of their natural lives.

Some have been elected bishop whom I did not, and do not, always whom I did not, and dno not, always agree on the policies of the church.

Likewise every annual conference sends a preacher to the church for a tenure of one year. I have not always geen in line with this pastor in his ideas of church management and policies of procedure.

However, I have never quit my church for any of the above causes, nor for any other cause, and united myself as a member with any other church.

Likewise there have been times when the convention of the Democratic party has nominated persons for office with whom I did not agree, and whose policies, in every case, I could not endorse. The same is true of the primary elections. Nevertheless, I have never thought it right, nor poroper to quit my party because of this (any more than I would my church) and unite, or join, another political party. I feel honor bound to stay with my church, and I feel honor bound to stay with my party. I shall do both. I purpose in my heart, and this purpose is confirmed by my best reason, and sane judgment to vote the Democratic ticket—national, state, county and precinct.

GEORGE P. BROWN.

P. S. I fail to see how any one who knows Henry Perkins, who for years lived amongst us, but now lives in California, can read his letter in McKinney Examiner of Sept. 27, 1928, and fail to vote for Al Smith.

THOUGHTS BY A THINKER.

1. What are intoxicating liquors? Ans. Liquors that produce intoxication.

2. Does it take the same amount of liquor to intoxicate every man. Ans. No. Some men can drink one pint of raw whiskey and not get full drunk while others would be down drunk on one-fourth of that amount.

3. From this fact could we allow any certain per cent (say 2.75) of alcohol sold as a beverage under the eighteenth amendment. Ans. No for the reason that some people would get intoxicated on it, while others would not.

◆ ◆ ◆

A Case in Court.

A man isarrested for being down drunk. He says "Your honor, I only drank a glass of the 2.75 per cent alcohol that Gov. Al Smith recommends that one have. The udge replies, "Our constitution says nothing of a per cent of alcohol, but says infoxicating liquors. You are drunk, and I fine you five dollars and costs."

Gov. Smith knows that no liquor that intoxicates can be legally sold without violating the eighteenth amendment. For this reason he says that if elected he will call on congress to submit an amendment to the eighteenth, so as to allow the sale of beer and wines. What is the difference between the influence of one in private and in public life. Ans. In private life one's influence is confined as a rule to his locality. If he is a "wet" or a "dry" his influence is confined to his locality. Gov. Dan Moody was a prohibitionist while in private life, but only the people of his home town county know, as the governor of the state of Texas, his influence for prohibition is not only state-wide, but because of his fight at Houston for a dry plank in the Democratic platform, is nation-wide.

To elect Al Smith to the presidency of the United States is to give him not only an influence equal to our own country, but far beyond our country. It is true he pledges himself to enforce the prohibition law, as long as it is a law. Why he anticipates a repeal of the law?

Query. Can one be a Democrat and refuse to elevate Al Smith to this position of influence Yes, in principle as good a Democrat as Democracy required. Democracy is a principle, and not confined to a party.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Ok.

That good hotels are the biggest asset of a modern city.

That the reputation of a city of good hotels goes far and wide.

That it brings favorable mention from every esction.

That good hotels bring much happiness to every city.

That they bring outside money that is spent in every line of business.

That they bring shoppers galore.

That they bring buyers to wholesalers and manufacturers.

That they bring many salesmen to a city. The better the hotels, the longer they stay.

That in the city of good hotels, the salesmen have their samples open and invite the merchants from surrounding cities to come and look.

That they bring a big automobile trade to a city.

That the first impression a visitor gets of a city is the hotels.

That if they make a good impression, they stay days instead of hours.

That nowadays the man looking for an opening for a business, a home or an investment, travels by automobile. If the hotels are good, he thinks it a worth while city.

Good hotels often bring home-seekers and new industries to a city, thus assuring a steady, healthy growth. Boost good hotels

SCOFIELD-BRYAN.

Miss Vivian Eloise Bryan, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bryan of this city became the bride of Robert M. Scofield in the home of Dr. M. E. Hudson Sunday morning, October 14 at 9 o'clock. The secred ringe ceremony was used. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Floyd and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert White.

The bride was becoming in a fall frock of blue crepe with hat, shoes and accessories to match.

Mrs. Scofield was reared in McKinney, having attended the McKinney public schools. She graduated from the Boyd High school, later attending Baylor college at Belton, and the North Texas Teachers' college at Denton. She taught school at Wetsel for two or three years, and then held a position as stenographer and assistant bookkeeper with the Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette for more than a year. She is a cultured, charming young lady who possesses many sweet virtues of character, and she is quite popular with her large circle of friends here and elsewhere.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scofield of Gainesville. He is connected with the Lone Star Gas company of Dallas in a responsible capacity, having formerly been located in McKinney for several months. He is a former student of Texas A. & M. college. Mr. Scofield is a refined, quiet and unostentatious young man, who numbers his friends by his acquaintances. He is receiving congratulations from his friends here upon winning his fair young bride.

Immediately following the impressive wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Scofield left in their car for a ten-day wedding trip to New Orleans, and other points in Louisiana, after which they will return to Dallas, where they will reside at 5800 Hudson street.

The host of McKinney and Collin county friends wish them much happiness, and prosperity in their future life.

Duer Burton, member of the Senior class of Austin college at Sherman, spent the week-end visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Burton in McKinney.

MISS ELMA JONES, NUTRITIONIST, HAS MANY CLASSES

Miss Elma S. Jones, American Red Cross nutritionist of this city, is one of the busiest individuals in the city at present. In conversation with her yesterday, we learned that she has thirty-seven classes during the week in this city.

At the J. L. Greer (North) Ward school, she has nine classes Monday; Tuesday, at the J. H. Hill (Central) Ward school, she has ten classes; Wednesday, at the J. W. Webb (East) Ward school, she has six classes and Thursdays, at the Fanny Finch (South) Ward school, she has eight classes.

On the first and third Wednesdays, Miss Jones teaches classes at South Ward school; the second and fourth Wednesdays, she teaches classes at North Ward school, and second and fourth Thursdays, she has classes at the colored school.

Every Friday is devoted to out-of-town work and Miss Jones has already visited many Collin county towns on that day since she has been in McKinney.

She maintains her headquarters and office in County Superintendent S. C. Stephens' office in the courthouse, where she may be found when not in classes. She advises all those who wish to consult her or see her on any subject concerning nutrition to visit her Saturday mornings, as she will be in her office at that time.

Raskobs Place $1,000,000 For Needy Children

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A foundation which will have $1,000,000 to spend for the relief and assistance of needy children has been established by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and his wife in memory of their son William S. Raskob, 20, killed in an automobile accident last July.

The foundation, which will be known as the "Bill" Raskob Foundation, was granted a charter by the Delaware state department yesterday.

"Bill was only 20 when he died," Mr. Raskob said, in telling of the establishment of the foundation "but he had developed traits of characetr which made him very lovable. He had a very big heart. Ever since he was a child his heart responded to every appeal from those who were in need and he gave to his utmost ability of giving.

"And so his mother and I, rather than build a costly monument, decided to set aside $1,000,000 for this foundation. I know that if Bill were with us now, nothing could be more pleasing to him than what will be done through this foundation to give some poor children a fair start in life."

The Raskobs have eleven children.

Jewell Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walker of Altoga, is holding a position with the American Railway Express company at Dallas while paying his way through business college there. He is a bright young fellow, who received his high school training in McKinney. We bespeak for this young man a successful business career and a future citizenship.

Would You Know One If You Saw It?

If you ever came face to face with a germ, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a germ, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to make it as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny germs can get into your blood streams through the smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisoning, and many more dangerous and perhaps fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers — washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone at Smith Drug Company.

REV. L. WOODALL'S RECENT DEATH AT PAGE, OKLAHOMA

We regret to learn through J. M. Woodall of Point, Texas, of the death of his brother, the late Rev. Lewis Woodall, which occurred August 31, 1928, at Page, Okla. His untimely death was due to pneumonia.

The deceased was born Sept. 21, 1875, at Verona, Collin county. He was the son of Elisha and Katie Woodall, early settlers of that part of our county. He grew to manhood at Verona, where he married Miss Mary Huggins. Three children were the fruit of this union, George, Elmer and Claira, all now living at Page, Okla. Two brothers also survive—J. M. Woodall of Point, Rains county and Jot Woodall of Lamesa, Texas. He has two sisters surviving —Nora Stone and Ada Medley, both of Abilene, Texas. He also has an aunt, Mrs. Lizzie St. Clair, of Verona. She and Caleb Womble are about the only two survivors of the Verona community, who were friends of his parents when they first settled there. The Verona community had many honored families to settle there in an early day. Among them were the Woodalls, Wombles, Baileys, Bounds and some others. Most of these were related to the deceased.

His burial took place at Keota, Okla., Sept. 2, 1928. He was an Odd Fellow, a Mason, and member of the American Legion. His burial took place under the solemn funeral rites of Masonry. Many friends and relatives attended his interment and his grave was covered with a mass of beautiful floral offerings.

The deceased and his two sons were all in the World war. The father was with the heavy artillery, but did not go across to Europe. His son, George, is an overseas veteran. Many relatives and boyhood friends will mourn the death of this good man, who was a native of our county in his fifty-third year, when he passed to his reward.

CHAS. M. COOPER'S ARTICLE APPEARS IN "THE DYNAMO"

It was our pleasure this week to see a copy of "Ths Dynamo," published monthly by the J. C. Penney company, 330 West 34 street, New York City, N. Y., of October issue, 1928. A special feature in the magazine was a story by Chas. M. Cooper, manager and co-owner of the J. C. Penney company store in this city, whose large store on the south side of the square is most attractive.

Mr. Cooper's story was entitled "Every Customer Is Entitled to Our Best Service." Among other things, he says: "The word 'service' means a benefit rendered. Service means vastly more than a veneer. No one can give real service unless he or she really desires to serve in heart and mind.

"One of the great outstanding principles of the J. C. Penney company is service. The Bible tells us "Do unto others as you would have them do untoy you." When we do this we are giving to our customers the best service we are capable of giving.

"We reap what we sow. If we render good service we reap good returns.

"Service stands for a multitude of things; service to our community as well as to our customers, for we are living in an age when service is demanded from every angle. The J. C. Penney company's one aim is to try to serve every one alike."

Mr. Cooper goes on to say that the customer spending only a few cents receives the same service as the one who spends a large amount and that the company tries to make every one who enters their doors their special guest.

He concludes by saying, "First, know your merchandise; know your customer; tell the truth; be courteous to all alike. Pack the dollar just as full as it can be packed with value and see that every customer is satisfied."

PAUL M'NUTT, INDIANA DEAN, HEADS LEGION

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 12.—With all business transacted and national officers selected for the coming year, the crowds which thronged San Antonio this week for the American Legion national convention began to melt away Thursday night.

Paul V. McNutt of Bloomington, Ind., dean of law at the University of Indiana, was elected national commander when the convention stampeded to him on the third ballot. Seven candidates were nominated and of these Gen. Roy Hoffman of Oklahoma City and John D. Ewing of Shreveport, La., seemed to hold the most strength, Hoffman led on the first ballot, getting 239 votes to 231 for Ewing and 189 for McNutt.

Ewing supporters gave their candidate a ride on the second ballot and obtained 245 votes. McNutt moved into second place with 213 and Albert Cox of North Carolina into third with 206. Hoffman was fourth with 173. The Ewing forces apparently decided that they had made their maximum showing and as the third ballot started Ewing withdrew and cast his in favor of McNutt.

NEVADA SENDS $68.50 FOR FLORIDA STORM VICTIMS

George H. Jones, cashier of the First National bank of Nevada, has remitted $68.50, contributed by Nevada citizens, to the American Red Cross relief fund that Collin county is raising for the Florida storm sufferers.

President W. S. Smith of the Collin County chapter commends in terms of warmest praise this response to the urgent disaster call on the part of Mr. Jones and his fellow townsmen.

It will be remembered that when the terrible storm of May 9, 1927, almost wiped out the little city of Nevada that the Red Cross was quick to respond to her call of distress with both cash and trained relief workers and nurses.

Prof. Smith hopes that other towns and communities in the county will emulate the example of Nevada.

As before stated in these columns, Anna, through Miss Gertrude Arnold, had previously reported with a cash donation to the same worthy cause to which Nevada has just responded.

BORAH SPEECH TO BE MADE IN DALLAS OCT. 22

Washington, Oct. 12.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho will deliver a speech in Dallas on October 22, in support of the Hoover-Curtis ticket, it was announced Thursday by the Republican national committee.

The second itinerary of the Idaho senator opens with an address in Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 15, followed by Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 17; Chattanooga, Oct. 15; Louisville, Oct. 19, and thence to Dallas. It is also indicated that Senator Borah will go into Oklahoma and Missouri for speeches, the points not being announced.

As through a portion of the West, where he attacked Governor Smith's farm relief program, the Idaho senator, one of the most attractive speakers in the United States congress is being used by the Republican national committee to again trail the Democratic nominee. Governor Smith moved through North Carolina Thursday and will pass though Tennessee Friday, and speaks at Louisville Saturday night. Senator Borah covers the same territory a week later.

SUNSHINE COTTON MAKES MORE THAN OTHER VARIETIES

J. A. Williams, who lives on his well-located, first class farm in the Wetsel community, about 5 miles south of McKinney, was in the city last evening.

He states that his Davidson Sunshine cotton is making a half bale per acre this year. It is decidely the best cotton that he has.

Mr. Williams is drilling some of his cotton land in wheat. He has a feeling that next year will probably be a good wheat year, and he likes the idea of rotating his crops and resting his land from cotton occasionally by sowing it in wheat or oats or plainting it in corn.

This editor has known and appreciated Mr. Williams' friendship for thirty years. We regard him as one of the most worthy citizens that our county possesses in any locality.

M'KINNEY MAN IS CHOSEN FOR C. OF C. ROAD COMMITTEE

Glen Stiff of McKinney has been appointed to serve on the Highway committee of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, of which Col. John D. Middleton of Greenville is president. This is one of the most important committees connected with the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, which organization is proving to be the most potent factor of progress and practical benefit to the sixty-seven counties within its territory that has ever been effected in this part of the state. Mr. Stiff is, by experience, well fitted for such an appointment. He is a successful business man, and has had much practical experience in road contracting and building, both as to different types of public highway, and maintenance, and in railroad and interurban building. Such men as Glen Stiff at the head of the special departments or the work to be done is the main reason of the outstanding success of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce in its mission.

Charles G. Jester, prominent Corsicana banker, is chairman of the highway committee on which Mr. Stiff is to serve.

J. S. Hunt, who lives in the Wilson Chapel community was in the city Monday and called at our office and placed an advertisement in the Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette, for a box supper to be held at the Wilson Chapel church, Friday night, Oct. 19, for the benefit of the Methodist church of that community.

TONY M'DONALD EXTENSIVE DEALER IN JERSEY COWS

Tony McDonald reports a well-sustained demand for Jersey cattle, and that in recent months he has made many sales and shipments from this city to various sections of the country.

One of them was thirty head of heavy springer cows and two-year-old heifers to Council Bluffs, Iowa. He sold and shipped another carload to George, Iowa, and has just shipped out six head of fine milk animals to Gainesville, Texas; also thirty-four head of choice milch cows to a customer at West Point, Nebraska; another car to a customer at Dunne, Iowa, and still another to Colorado, Texas. He has just received an order from a Lubbock dairyman for five head of first class, fresh milch cows. Since July he has shipped nine cars of high grade Jerseys to Duncan and Comanche, Okla., and in the same period of time has sold more than 100 head, and shipped them out to Dallas customers.

Mr. McDonald is one of the most extensive buyers and sellers of high grade, choice Jersey milch cattle in the state. He buys most of his cattle from Collin farmers, who are raising more of them now all the time.

Choice milk and butter Jersey milch cows have an unlimited demand at excellent prices, and farmers can well afford to breed and raise more of them, says Mr. McDonald. We have a good open climate here most of the year, and raise a variety of feedstuff. These advantages, together with the reputation that Collin has established in the purebred Jersey industry, causes a very wide demand upon local dealers for Collin county bred dairy and milk stuff.

Jersey breeding is a lucrative adjunct to Collin farming, that is still susceptible of almost unlimited expansion, if registered sires are used, and mated to the best quality of registered and high grade milch cows.

METHODIST WOMEN IN JUBILEE MEET AT FRISCO

Mrs. Frank Emerson, district secretary of the McKinney district M. E. Church, South, Woman's Missionary society, is busy arranging the program for a district jubilee meeting of its 23 societies to be held at Frisco, Oct. 18. It will be an all-day session.

Mrs. Emerson states that an interesting program will be prepared for the occasion which meets at Frisco because of the late Mrs. Abbie Allen having been president of the society when it was first organized.

This is the jubilee year of the organization, which came into being fifty years ago. Mrs. Allen and her husband, also long deceased, were prominent leaders and benefactors of the missionary society, and its work and of Methodism in general. Her husband, the late Senator Wm. Allen, was a noted educator, writer, author of several books and state senator from this district.

Mrs. L. H. Pendleton is now president of the Frisco society, who, with her sister members, is preparing to cordially entertain representatives of the twenty-three societies in the district that are functioning under the leadership of Mrs. Emerson. Two of these societies were organized this year, and are known as jubilee-year societies. In addition to the women who will be present, the pastors of the district and preachers, to the number of twenty-five or thirty are expected to be present. Rev. S. W. Miller, a superannuate Methodist preacher of Frisco, will conduct the opening devotional service.

Mrs. Emerson urges both the women of the entire district and pastors to keep the date in mind, and be at Frisco early Thursday morning, Oct. 18, to spend a profitable day in going over the work, and making plans for the district for the coming month.

ROBERT MASON, 15, LUCAS, DIES AT CITY HOSPTAL

Robert Mason, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mason, died at the City hospital this (Thursday) morning at 2:10, following an attack of appendicitis, from which he suffered since Saturday. He was moved from his home in the Lucas community, where he resided with his parents on the C. W. Graves farm, to the City hospital Saturday to undergo an operation, but blood-poison set in, from which the boy died before submitting to the operation.

The deceased is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters, who are receiving condolence from a large number of friends and relatives.

Funeral services were conducted this (Thursday) afternoon at Forrest Grove by Rev. J. Ben Snider at 2:30 o'clock. Interment followed in the cemetery at that place.

The Keller & Crouch Funeral home of this city had charge of the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayhugh and County Clerk Miss Minnie Burrage motored over to Tioga Sunday, where they spent the day.

ANTI-AL SMITH RALLY IN CITY SATURDAY, OCT. 20

An Anti-Al Smith county-wide rally will be held in McKinney next Saturday night, Oct. 20. This meeting will be addressed by Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurray college, of Abilene. Dr. Hunt is regarded as one of the greatest speakers in the state. He is noted for his rich humor in connection with his serious arguments. Others will also give brief addresses at this rally in McKinney.

ARCH COOPER DIED AT HIS LATE HOME HERE THURSDAY

Arch Cooper, 72 years 9 months and 9 days old, died at his late home, 1317 North Oak street in this city at 4 p. m. Thursday, October 11, following an illness of about a year. He had been bedfast the past three months.

The deceased was a native of Bradley county, Tennessee, where he lived until about twenty-five years ago, when he came to Texas, landing in Collin county. He resided in Westminster for a number of years, and nine years ago moved to McKinney, where he has since resided. He was married August 21, 1884 to Miss Mary Chamblin.

Funeral services were conducted this (Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the First Baptist church by Rev. Joseph Pierce of Greenville, assisted by Dr. M. E. Hudson and Rev. T. F. Hoffman. Interment took place in the Forest Park cemetery at Greenville with the Sam J. Massic & Son Funeral directors in charge.

The deceased is survived by his heart-broken wife and the following children: Mrs. E. C. McMurray of McKinney, Route 3; Mrs. J. M. Simmons of Plano; Mrs. H. I. McLarry of Greenville; Mrs. Homer G. Cooper of Plano and Miss Mattie Lou Cooper, at home. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Little Williams of Paris, Texas, who was here attending the funeral, and by one brother, Judge J. T. Cooper of Tyner, Tennessee.

Active pallbearers were Rufus Furr, B. Tidwell, Otis Nelson, Hansford Ray, Elmont Smith and R. L. Hight.

A wide circle of friends residing in this city and county deeply regret to learn of the death of this highly esteemed old McKinney citizen and extend sympathy and cincere condolence to the bereaved ones. A profusion of beautiful floral offerings covered his new-made mound expressing the love and respect in which the deceased was held.

INTERNATIONAL REPRESENTATIVE SPEAKS TO LIONS

C. W. Webb, field service representative of the Lions International of Chicago, paid a visit to the Lions club Wednesday noon and spoke of the work being carried on by the organization throughout the United States.

He was presented by Lions Thomas Johnson and R. F. Finley, members of the entertainment cofmittee for the week. District Governor John A. Erhard of Dallas was to have been present, but at the last moment advised that affairs in his office would not permit his absence.

The ladies of the First Christian church served a delightful luncheon, with chicken pie being the principal item on the menu. Mrs. U. A. Saunders was in charge of a group of ladies from her church society, which served for the day.

Vice president Dr. P. D. Robason presided in the absence of Lion President A. M. Wolford, and dispatched business with ease and grace. Dr. Robason is one of the club's loyal and faithful members.

The secretary read a letter from Mrs. Roy Largent, president of the City Federation, urging Lions to support Library week, which is now being observed. A unanimous vote of the club indicated the members would lend any assistance possible to increase the number of books and periodicals held by the library.

The secretary also read from John D. Middleton, Greenville, president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce thanking the members for their cordial reception and treatment of members of the East Texas body, who were recently entertained by the Lions and Rotarians here.

Lion R. F. Finley urged support of the Lions football team, and told of efforts to obtain new uniforms for the club before its trip to Gainesville Friday.

Lion Webb, in his address, described the work being done throughout Lionism, and called attention to outstanding work in Texas. The Lone Star state has nearly 200 clubs, 69 of which were organized during the last year by Past District Governor Rosequest of Eastland.

DR. R. G. MOOD CONDUCTS FINAL CHURCH MEET

The final quarterly conference of the year has been held at the First Methodist church, with reports having been received from all organized bodies of the church. The conference was conducted by Dr. Robert Gibbs Mood, presiding elder of the district. Dr. Mood gave a resume of the work during the year throughout the district.

Nominations were made by Dr. J. A. Old, pastor, for the next conference year, and included:

Christian stewardship, B. Frank Skelton.

Church trustees, George P. Brown, Glen Stiff, Dr. J. A. Caldwell, A. C. King and Wallace Hughston.

Church stewards, John S. Bristol, Ed S. Brown, Gibson Caldwell, Roy Caldwell, C. M. Cooper, I. R. Dillow, J. H. Elliott, arl Gallagher, L. T. Gay, W. C. Gerrish, O. S. Hines, A. D. Hope, W. B. Hope, Loren M. King, W. H. Knott, G. G. Alexander, Sam Neathery, H. H. Neilson, O. A. Reese, George Reinhardt, B. Frank Skelton, C. A. Turrentine, R. J. Walton, Add G. Wilson, George M. Wilson, W. G. Wolfe; honorary members, J. H. Ferguson, J. Frank Smith, and W. L. Yarbrough.

Recording steward, W. L. Yarbrough.

District steward, Walter B. Wilson.

Sunday school superintendent, Jack Ryan.

Associates, Glen Stiff and Add G. Wilson.

Charge lay leader, Glen Stiff.

Chairman missionary committee, Felix Welmaker.

Reports of the year's work were received from Mrs. F. A. Kluttz, president of the Woman's Missionary society, and Mrs. Carl Gallagher, president of the Social Workers. Both reports showed a great amount of work done and several thousand dollars expended for various causes, with balances in their treasuries.

Add G. Wilson, the retiring Sunday school superintendent, reported a great year's work. He has made a faithful and highly efficient director of the Sunday school and words of appreciation for his work were expressed by Dr. Old, pastor.

Annual conference will be held within about two weeks and Chairman R. J. Walton, and his board of stewards are winding up the year's work.

SMITH GIVEN BIG WELCOME AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 12.—With Virginia, at one time termed the Mother of Presidents, in the throes of a religious fight against Gov. Alfred E. Smith, aided by the opposition on account of the prohibition views he has expressed, it will be difficult to determine the political value of the New York Governor's visit here until the national campaign gets farther along. In the opinion of many in this once capital of the Southern Confederacy no one is able to determine now what the State will do on election day. Also in the opinion of many, Virginia is the most uncertain of any Southern State as it affects the fate of the Democracy as a future political fighting unit.

The large outpouring of people that greeted the Democratic nominee Thursday was attended by a mark of enthusiasm that may or may not be indicative. If anything, Virginia is cordial. Sitting high in his automobile and waving the famed brown derby during the ride to the historic state capitol, Governor Smith caught the fancy of the crowds.

The Smith party was met at Fredericksburg by Gov. Harry F. Byrd, brother of Riheard E. Byrd, who sailed Wednesday to conquer the South Pole; Senator Carter Glass and other state and Democratic committee officials, including State Chairman Hooker. The ancestors of the Byrd family formerly resided in Austin and were connected with the administration of Governor Runnels.

Two Issues Stressed

The major fight being made against Governor Smith here is Romanism and rum. The Caldwell letter which used Mr. Hoover's name in drawing the religious issue was sent from the Republican State headquarters here. The Republican nominee repudiated the effort. The outward issue is the fight against Governor Smith by the Virginia Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Church organization led by its bishop, James C. Cannon Jr., is prohibition.

Our young friend, James Coffman, of the Woodlawn community, 3 miles northeast of McKinney renews for the Weekly Democrat-Gazette another year in advance. Mr. Coffman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Coffman an esteemed old farm couple living on their place in the Woodlawn community. Their son, James is living with them and running their farm.

H. S. Ware, popular manager of the Texas Power & Light Co., attended the State fair in Dallas Monday.

To Our Customers---

The undersigned banks of McKinney will, on October 1st, install a system of Service Charges, covering the items listed below:

Checking accounts, having more than two checks per month, with an average daily balance of less than $50.00, except religious and charitable institutions and where there is no affiliated account, per month, ... 50c

Collecting drafts, with or without Bill of Lading, 10 cents per $100.00 or a minimum charge of 25c

Bank drafts and Cashier's checks, 10c per $100. or a minimum charge of 10c

Overdrafts, minimum charge 50c

Each check returned on account of insufficient funds, drawer of check will be charged 25c

Analysis of the expense in handling active checking accounts has shown that an account which has an average of less than $50.00 is handled at an actual loss to to a bank. The other charges are based on the cost of time and money to handle. When an account, regardless of the size, is opened with a bank, pass books, check books and other supplies are furnished free, and at the same time ledger sheets, expensive machines and other equipment and stationery must be used, at considerable expense, and as the volume is increased, more bookkeepers, of necessity, must be employed.

In view of the above facts, the undersigned banks will on the 1st of October, establish the above service charges, and we feel that our depositors will be entirely agreeable to having their accounts handled on this basis.

It is hoped, however, that where it is possible, the depositors will co-operate with us by maintaining an average balance of $50.00, or more, against which there will be no charge, but if circumstances do not permit of it, we trust that there will be no objection to paying apart of the actual cost of handling the account.

It is not our purpose so much to penalize the small account, but it is our purpose to encourage the small depositors to increase his balance and keep it up to the average of $50.00, in which case both the depositor and the bank will be benefited.

All the undersigned banks greatly appreciate the business with which they have been favored, and entertain the hope that the depositing public will assist us in bringing about the above increase in balances.

We are here to serve you, and any assistance which you may give us so that we may be able to increase our service to you will be greatly appreciated.

Yours very truly,

COUNTY-WIDE MEET OF LIVE STOCK AND POULTRY FANCIERS

On Saturday, Oct. 27, a county-wide meeting of all those interested in preventing thefts of poultry and live stock in Collin county, will be held at the Municipal colliseum in this city. The meeting will be held that afternoon.

Lewis C. Bryant and Summa S. Bryant, sons of Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Bryant, are in charge of the formation of this club, which will be known as the Collin County Anti-Theft club. They already have the support and encouragement of County Farm Agent Roy F. Saunders; Mrs. J. Ed McGee, county home demonstration agent; Secretary Clarence W. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce and others.

Numerous counties of Texas have alrdeay formed these organizations, their purpose being to prevent theft of poultry and all other live stock in the county.

Each member of this organization will be given a distinct tattoo mark, different from any other in the county, which he will be permitted to use on all his chickens, turkeys, geese, cows, hogs and all other kinds of live stock. In this way they will be easily distinguished if found in some other locality.

The meeting here Oct. 27 is expected to attract a large group of Collin county poultry fanciers and live stock men.

Mrs. J. N. Singletary and little son, John Jr., of Farmersville, spent the week-end in McKinney visiting Mr. and Mrs. Tom L. Bailey who reside on North Coleman street. Mr. Bailey recently moved to McKinney from Farmersville and accepted the position as deputy under District Clerk Halsell S. Davis. Mesdames Singletary and Bailey are sisters.

TOTAL OF 32,293 BALES GINNED IN COUNTY TO OCT. 1

A total of 32,293 bales of cotton were ginned in Collin county prior to Oct. 1, this year, according to I. R. Dillow, Collin county cotton statstician. This is in comparison to 23,390 bales ginned to the same date last year, making 8,903 more bales this year than last at the same date.

Collin county gins are running all day and part of the night keeping up with cotton rolling into their stands almost every hour of the day.

Estimates of the production in the county vary from 65,000 to 80,000 bales, while the average estimate is around 70,000 to 75,000 bales.

Fast Marine Team Coming to Texas

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13.—For the first time in their history, the Marine corps football team will invade Texas, when it meets Loyola collage of Los Angeles, at Dallas, Nov. 3. It will be the fifth game on the Marines' schedule, which will carry them into eight states and the District of Columbia, and will involve traveling a distance estimated at more than 13,000 miles.

The Marines won their opening game, 21-0, when they met the Coast Guard team at New London, Conn., Oct. 6. They play St. Bonaventure at Erie, Pa., Oct. 13; Davis and Elkins college at Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 20, and St. Xavier, at Cincinnati, Oct. 27.

Then will follow their contest with Loyola at Dallas. The Marines are eager to gain a victory over the western eleven, and at the same time show their prowess on the gridiron to their buddies of the Marine Corps league, which holds its annual convention in Dallas at that time.

Later games will be played at Norfolk, Va., with Washington college, Nov. 10, with Loyola U., of Chicago, in that city, Nov. 17, Lebanon Valley college, at Scranton, Pa., Nov. 24, Dayton U., at Dayton, Nov. 29, a representative navy team for the President's cup at Washington, Dec. 1, and their final game with Loyola U., of New Orleans, in the Creole city, Dec. 8.

Last year the Marines won all of their ten games, and they have made a good beginning to their present campaign. Three sturdy teams will clash with the leathernecks before they reach Dallas, one of which, St. Xavier, gave the Marines their hardest battle last year, the sea soldiers winning, 14-13.

The Marines may possibly maintain their unbroken string of victories until their Texas contest. In that case one of the liveliest games of the year may be expected, Loyola being considered one of the strongest elevens on the West Coast.

CELINA BOY IS AT HOME AFTER 9 MONTHS IN PARIS

J. B. Winn, Jr., returned Saturday from a stay of about nine months in Europe. Most of the time was spent in Paris, France, but he spent some months in Africa.

J. B. went over last December to pursue his study of the fine arts in some of the famous institutions in that country. It was a great trip and was thoroughly enjoyed, he says.

Later the Record will publish some of J. B.'s impressions of the countries he visited.—Celina Record.

Miss Frances Louise Faires spent the week-end in Dallas.

NORTH CAROLINA IS CLAIMED FOR SMITH COLUMN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—When Gov. Alfred E. Smith goes through North Carolina today he will meet members of the Democratic organization in a series of conferences that will tell him the State is as certainly Democratic as anything can be in a political campaign. The fight is still going on with vigor with all the State leaders in active support save United States Senator F. M. Simmons.

Thirty days ago North Carolina was counted as probably Republican, with a trend strongly going to Hoover. The largest element in Republican favor was the failure of Senator Simmons to support the action of the Houston convention and his open attack on Governor Smith in the Senate and since the nomination. Being in control of the State organization for years, the veteran Democrats desertion materially injured Smith's chances at the outset, but beset with illness that prevented him from carrying on his fight at the national convention. Simmons has had nothing to say during the last thre weeks. One story is that he has yielded to importunities of his lifelon gpolitical friends not to give further aid in surrendering North Carolina to the Republican party.

Back of this, however, is the fact that a younger Democratic element which has not made much show in State or national politics ahs come upon the scene, and the old grasp on the political machine is not as firm as it once was. The younger element, acording to understanding here, will have a large share of the credit in holding the political fort.

North Carolinians coming to Washington bring word that the intense Democratic drift has ben due somewhat to the character of the campaign made against Governor Smith. Hardly had his nomination been made than two evangelists went about the State circulating what is declared to be the bogus Knights of Columbus oath and pamphlets containing what ourported to be statements by the Rev. S. E. Tull of Pine Buff, Ark., denouncing Governor Smith and the Catholic Church.

HOOVER HEARS GOOD REPORTS ON TWO STATES

Washington, Oct. 11.—Herbert Hoover renewed his study of the Massachusetts and New York political situations Wednesday between strokes upon the speeches he is to deliver in those states within the next two weeks.

H. Edmund Machold, chairman of the New York state committee, and Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman for that state, conferred with the Republican presidential candidate during the morning regarding plans for his address in Madison Square Garden, Oct. 22.

Previously Hoover had already discussed his visit to Boston this weekend with Sampel R. Wilson, chairman of the Federal Board of Mediation.

Optimistic views were presented to him regarding both states. Hilles, in a statement issued after his talk with the nominee, said that the Republicans had a fight on their hands in New York and were organizing to carry it on.

"One most satisfying feature has been the heavy registration of women," he said, "and we expect them to play an effective part in this election. We are confident, but not overconfident."

Winslow said that the Republican organization and enthusiasm in his state were the best that he had ever seen.

"The disposition of the voters is to get down to earnest thinking and consider which ticket gives the greatest assurance of continued stability in government," he said. "That is why the state has been so consistently Republican in national elections. I have seen other years like this when the Democrats boasted that they were going to carry Massachusetts up until the final weeks, but they are always disappointed.

"The voters began to discard the nonessential considerations about now and make up their minds along the lines of the real, sound issues which are economic. Don't be alarmed about Massachusetts. The eggs she puts in the Republican basket will not be china ones."

Ezra Taylor, city waterworks man, sustained a dislocated right shoulder Sunday, while he and his family were visiting his brother-in-law, J. E. Fielder and family near Princeton. The accident gave him considerable pain, it being two hours before the shoulder was set in this city. Monday he was able to be out on the streets, but the pain was still with him, he said. His many friends, and they are legion, trust that he will soon be all right again.

Nature Thought of Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle, and can be bought from Smith Drug Company.

THERE are just two things women are really afraid of, a mouse and the unfavorable opinion of a guest on her baking.

We can't help much in case a ferocious rodent comes roaring out of his lair, but when it comes to providing flour for baking needs, Oh, la, la! That's where we shine brightly.

WHITE BILLOWS FLOUR is super-standard, made of the choicest soft wheat and milled in a plant where quality stands first.

The housewife will have no disappointments if she uses White Billows for her baking.

ICE DELIVERED IN CARDBOARD CARTONS COMING

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Ice in the future may be delivered to the home in cardboard cartons, according to Leslie C. Smith, secretary, National Associations of Ice Industries. But in that event it will not be the solid block of ice now inserted in the family ice box, but ice cracked into small pieces.

"Ice absorbs the heat from the air passengers over its surfaces," Mr. Smith explains. "The greater the area of the surface of ice exposed to the air, the more heat is absorbed to the colder the air becomes, the better the refrigeration. Cracked ice represents more surfaces to the air than a solid block of ice, and therefore is more efficient.

"Refrigeration engineers in protracted experiments have found that cracked ice in the ordinary ice box gives 16 per cent lower temperatures with only 3 per cent more meltage than block ice. So enthusiastic have these investigators become over the possibilities for household use of cracked ice that they are building a test box especially adapted to cracked ice, and they hope to get even better results. Later, manufacturers may offer such a box to the public.

"This test box will have a wire basket built into the ice compartment to hold the cracked ice and prevent it falling out when the door is opened. The cracked ice will be poured into the basket at the top.

"Progressive housewives need not wait for the new cracked-ice box which may be manufactured, but may obtain some of the advantages now with the ice box they are using. By getting the iceman to crack into several pieces each block he delivers, housewives will help to lower the temperature of their ice boxes, and get the most out of ice. If they take care to keep the ice from touching the back or side walls of the ice compartment (through which outside heat is easily transferred), refrain from wrapping the ice or putting food in the ice compartment, they will further increase the efficiency of ice, getting the best sort of refrigeration at the lowest cost."

ALL TEXAS DINNER AND SHOWS TO REGALE STATE EDITORS AND FAMILIES COMING TO THE FAIR

Dallas, Oct. 12.—Editors from all Texas arrived in Dallas Friday morning for Press day at the State fair of Texas and for the two-day meeting of the Texas Press association. The fair management has made elaborate preperation to receive 250 newspaper men and their families and it was estimated 650 people would be guests in the Encampment building, beginning at 12:15 p. m.

Visiting editors will register at the Adolphus hotel upon their arrival when they and their families will be presented with tickets to "The Desert Song" and to the midway attractions and races. No set program was planned, the thought being that the editors would spend the day in sight-seeing and amusement.

The all-Texas dinner will long be remembered by those who have been invited to attend by the fair management. Every article on the menu will be prepared from prize-winning exhibits of agriculture, live stock and poultry. These articles will be taken from the county exhibits and prepared and served under the supervision of prize-winning farm club girls, working under the direction of the home demonstration service of A. & M. college of Texas. The slogan for the event will be "Texas Can Clothe and Feed Them All."

The following counties will provide the viands.

Napkins from Garza County section, especially manufactured by the Post Mills at Post City.

Decorations by Lang Floral company.

Roses from Smith county wholesale growers.

Salads and relishes made from sweet peppers raised in Lubbock, Greeg, Cass and Hale counties. Beets from Garza county. Celery from Hale county. Tomatoes from Randall and Hall counties. Eggs from Eastland county. Bread, cakes and pies from Hartley and Floyd county flours.

Fried, baked and stewed chicken and chicken pie from prize fowls presented by poultry exhibitors at the fair. Turkeys from Martin farms and Dr. Jack Skiles, Denton. Champion Hampshire pork from Flowerdale farms, Dallas. Home-cured bacon Lankert Seed farms, Waco. Cottage cheese by Dallas Milk company.

Snap beans from Anderson, Harrison, Van Zandt, Marion and Rusk counties. Dried beans from Houston and Wheeler counties. Irish potatoes from Anderson, Lamar and Lubbock counties. Sweet potatoes from Lubbock, Cass, Harrison, Hemphill, Floyd, Rusk and Ellis counties. Turnips and carrots from Anderson and Hale counties. Eggplant from Harris and Hale counties. Onions from Ellis county.

Apples from Brown, Wood, Wheeler, Hartley and Hemphill counties. Plums and dewberries from Brown county. Grapes from Donley, Wheeler, Dimmit and Tarrant counties.

Syrup from Van Zandt county. Honey from Dallas county. Plum jelly from Kaufman county. Plum preserves from Henderson and Lamar counties.

Bean coffee by George C. Reeves, Wood county. Perco, the 'grain food drink," from Tarrant county. Milk, cream and buttermilk from Producers Milk company, Dallas.

Honey from Uvalde and Ellis counties. Watermelons from Wheeler county.

Pies and cakes cooked from Texas products by Schepps-Kleber bakeris, Dallas.

Pioneer Woman Celebrated Her 90th Anniversary

Mrs. R. O'Brien celebrated the 90th anniversary of her birth at the old homestead four or five miles southeast of Celina Sunday, at which sixty-eight relatives and friends gathered to honor this beloved pioneer woman, all but six being relatives.

Thirty-two relatives were prevented from attending, due to various hindrances.

A table about 50 feet long was constructed under the trees in the yard and when the contents of the well-filled baskets that were brought found a place on it, if it did not groan, it had cause to, for their was an array of good things to eat seldom seen.

All seemed to enjoy themselves through the day, the only thing to mar the affair being the absence of some relatives.

The honoree received many nice presents from loving relatives and friends.

Sickness prevented an only sister, Mrs. J. N. Spiress of Spencer, Okla., from attending.

This celebration has been an annual affair for years and it affords the relatives and friends of this good woman much pleasure to do her honor in this manner. It is also a great pleasure to see her so well and active for one of her years. She and her husband reared a family of nine children, to whom the community is indebted.

Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were: Frank O'Brien, wife and four children, who reside at the old homestead, Mr. and Mrs. Ben O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Gus O'Brien and son, Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Sam O'Brien, Mr .and Mrs. Raymond O'Brien and little son, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Atkins, Mrs. Ben Gearhart, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gearhart, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Wilson and daughter, Miss Estelle, of Celina; Bennie Obrien of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Atkins and little son of Prosper, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Atkins and little son of Prosper, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Terry of Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Terry and three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Terry of Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Byrd of Alvord, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tompkins and four children of Ringgold, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Waters of Allen, Mrs. T. N. O'Brien of Randlett, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cassity of Pilot Point, Celina Record.

VALDASTA PEOPLE ARE VISITORS IN McKINNEY

W. H. Rich and daughter, Miss Edith, and sons, Doyle, Hoyt and Garvis, of Valdasta, were in the city Saturday trading with our merchants. Mr. Rich gave our office a business call and renewed his subscription to the Democrat-Gazette for another year. Mr. Rich has read our paper for many years, and we thank him for his patronage and friendship. Mr. Rich also pays for another copy of the Democrat-Gazette he is sending to his daughter, Mrs. F. M. Smith, Meadow, Texas. Mr. Rich reports the farmers in his community gathering the cotton crop at a rapid rate, and that the average yield will be about one-third of a bale to the acre.

Dr. H. L. Pearson of Clarksville spent Tuesday night in McKinney visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. Belle Pearson, widow of the late District Judge J. M. Pearson. Dr. Pearson had been to Dallas to visit his son, Russell Pearson, and also his sister, Mrs. C. T. Jones, both of whom live here. Dr. H. L. Pearson practiced dentistry for twenty-two years in McKinney, but left here twenty-three years ago, and located at Clarksville, where he practiced his profession until four or five years ago, when he retired to give his time and attention to the management of his large property interests in that city and county.

Dr. Pearson always enoys meeting up with his old McKinney friends on his occasional visits back to McKinney. This editor was glad to meet up with him and note his apparent good health and to enjoy his cordial visit even if it was only a brief one.
